Tree Fruit Growers Look For Elusive Answers To Plum Pox Virus

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

BIGLERVILLE (Adams Co.) — Adams county peach growers will get more information on the incurable plum pox virus which has struck their orchards when European scientists arrive in mid-December.

During a Tree Fruit Growers' meeting held Monday night at Biglerville High School about 400 growers met to gather information on what action is to be taken by the federal and state governments to stop the spread of the virus which attacks stonefruit trees, such as peach and nectarine.

"Wait until December, we will know more then" was the constant answer to the fruitgrowers' questions.

In an interview several days after the meeting, Bill Kleiner, Penn State extension director/tree fruit for Adams County, said "Once the Europeans get in here the second week in December more will be known. They're going to have a workshop for all of us who are involved — U.S. Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and extension and researchers — to explain every little detail about it and from there the USDA is going to make a decision on what they're going to do and how they're going to go forward on this thing."

Kleiner said there were 151 negative samples in four orchards. In the quarantine area of Huntington and Latimore townships there were 108 negative samples, "and outside of that area they did 32 samples that were in other parts of Adams County."

The state and federal officials also took 23 samples from coun-

Conservationists Lauded By Lebanon District

MT. GRETNA (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Conservation District recognized six individuals and businesses for their outstanding efforts of conservation in Lebanon County at their annual planning meeting and awards banquet Wednesday. Special guests, volunteers, and award winners were invited to celebrate in the conservation district's 50th anniversary. During the banquet, special recognition was awarded to a dairyman, educator, woodlot owner, volunteer, limestone industry, and the County of Lebanon.

The Clean Water Farm Award

Richard Van Lieu, owner of Guided Peace Farm, was recognized for his efforts in soil and water conservation on his 120 acre dairy farm in Bethel Township. For over 30 years, the Van Lieu family has been incorporating conservation practices on their farm. Richard became a cooperator with the Lebanon County Conservation District in 1987 and has continued the family tradition of conservation farming. Over the past 30 years the Van Lieus have installed

"It's just like the old days," someone remarked when these Big Valley farmers sneaked into the room where moon pies were cooling and helped themselves. "When I was growing up, the men would be cleaning out the stables while the women baked. When the women weren't looking, the men sneaked through the back door and snitched some moon pies," the Mifflin countian recounted. From left are Sylvanus Peachey, Nathan Peachey, Clarence Alwine, and Loren Yoder, who built a fire in an old beehive oven on the Peachey farm so that the women could bake the old-fashioned moon pies. Peachey also snitched a jar of white pickles to accompany their moon pie feast. Turn to page B2 to read more about moon pies and the people who make them. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

Many leaders believe it's time to dispel the myths and misconceptions about the Latinos in Chester County. Latino Community Crucial To Chester Ag Industries

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — For some, America's booming economy has left many businesses and the communities they support alienated.

In Kennett Square — a diversified community known as the "mushroom capitol of the world" — the tight agri-industry workforce has been evident. While it has opened up job opportunities for Latino immigrants, they've struggled with finding acceptance in the community in which they work.

But many leaders believe it's time to dispel the myths and misconceptions about the Latinos in Chester County.

To help educate the surrounding community, a Mushroom Festival was conducted in mid-September, said Laurie Szoke, Chester County 4-H extension agent. The celebration included 300 migrant family members and people from the community.

One thing for certain: American jobs are not being taken by immigrants who live in "camps" paid for and maintained by the huge mushroom growing industry in the county.

"The thing is, Americans don't want to do this work," said Chris Alonzo of Pietro Industries, Inc. in Kennett Square. Even though the work pays better than fast food chains, supermarkets, and gas stations, "they don't want to do it. But there's a need in this area for these workers. They're good people, they work 65-70 hours a week because they want to make the money. They're here to work."

Not long ago, Pietro Industries was host to the Mexican consular offices, with help from Jacob Prado, deputy consular. Prado and other Mexican representatives, along with Chester County Cooperative Extension and Migrant Education, visited the Pietro Industries mushroom farm and saw the working and living conditions of the migrant workers.

Some of the workers arrive yearly from the small Mexican town of Sambilla. In all, Pietro Industries employs about 85 migrant workers, of which 65 are Latinos, according to Alonzo.

In Sambilla, "they all grew up together," said Alonzo. "They all know each other, they're all related. They're friends with the family — uncles, cousins, brothers-in-law, children. They're all family-oriented."

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers closed steady to .50 higher on a light week's test. The market continues to shrug off the threat of lower prices, despite weaker dressed beef values. The supply of Choice cattle is simply too light to justify a lower market, and current prices could easily digest larger receipts. Western finished cattle opened the week slightly lower, but pushed back to fully steady to end the week at 69.00-70.00 and mostly 110.00 dressed. Local Holstein steer prices ended mostly .50 lower on a rather plain offering. Demand for slaughter cows moved progressively lighter this week and prices finished .50-1.00 lower, while slaughter bulls sold weak. Supply included 34 percent slaughter steers, 6 percent slaughter heifers, 35 percent slaughter cows, 4 percent bulls, and 21 percent feeders.

NY Phil. Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.
NOVEMBER 05, 1999

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, NOVEMBER 05, 1999. FEDERAL-STATE

Mostly prices were unchanged when compared to a week earlier. Demand was usually light and unaggressive for adequate offerings. The undertone was steady to fully steady mostly steady at prevailing price levels. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending October 30, 1999 were 5 % less than last week, and 3 % less than last year. Shell egg supplies were usually adequate for most trade needs.

NE Chicken Parts 1&2

ATLANTA, GA.
NOVEMBER 10, 1999

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest remained very quiet as buyers shifted their interest to holiday items. Offerings of boneless skinless breasts were available at steep discounts, and many deboners curtailed production while buying product at these levels. Wings and thighs were reported tight to adequate. All other items were at least adequate. Retail and distributive movement was seasonally light. The market tone was weak on boneless skinless breasts and generally steady on the balance.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of read-to-cook whole birds slowed at some plants but was noted as fairly decent at others, particularly on the closely balanced sizes over 3 pounds. Lighter weights were in balance to ample. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights were mostly desirable to light. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent higher at 59 to 71 cents. Trade sentiment varied from about steady to fully steady. In the parts complex, wings were in tight supply. Thighs were in close balance. Other items were generally noted as adequate with boneless skinless breasts often noted as in heaviest supply.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

Prices were unchanged. The market tone remained steady. Demand was mostly moderate to fairly good at times, and was best for the scattered feature interest. Supplies were generally adequate, although, medium eggs were usually available. On the West Coast, however, offerings continued light. Breaking stock supplies were adequate from regular sources, and demand for additional product was no better than fair. Light type hens were about adequate for current needs.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Nov 10, 1999
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
Daily National Grain Market Summary

USDA's crop production report, released this morning was expected to boost grain and soybean bids, but didn't. Some profit taking in corn pits and slow export sales this week pressured bids lower. Wheat 4 to 7 cents lower. Corn 3 to 8 cents lower. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents lower. Soybeans 11 to 15 cents lower. USDA increased their estimate for World wheat production by more than 255 million bushels and wheat bids fell moderately lower. World ending stocks were up from 128.12 million metric tons to 130.46 mmt. Declines were limited, however, on substantial wheat purchases overnight by Egypt and the Philippines. Sharp losses in corn pits, despite lower production figures compared to a year ago. However, if their figures are realized, this would be the third largest production and second highest yield on record. Corn pro- duction was forecast at 9.54 billion bushels, up 1 percent from October and 2 percent lower than 1998. The expected yield is at 134.5 bushels per acre, up 0.1 bushels from 1998. Soybean bids also fell sharply lower, despite the lower production figure, but this was about what traders expected. Soybeans were estimated at 2.67 billion bushels, down 2 percent from 1998's record production of 2.74 billion bushels. Expected yield is at 36.7 bushels per acre which is 2.2 percent below 1998. Soybean meal and oil bids were also lower.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, OK
Wed Nov 10, 1999

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News
Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers steady. Steer and heifer calves steady to 2.00 higher. Demand good for all classes. Bulk supply calves. Calves in moderate to fleshy conditions. Quality average to attractive with many unweaned calves in supply. Few feeder cattle in medium to fleshy conditions with several grain fed steers. Weigh- ups average to full. Slaughter cows .50-1.00 higher. Slaughter bulls 1.00 higher. Packer demand moderate and much improved from past several weeks. As is normal for the fall culling season many thin emaciated cows in the supply. Total of 890 cows and bulls sold with 45 percent to packers. Receipts this week 14,100; last week 6,352; last year 14,113. Supply consisted of 35 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 58 percent calves under 600 lbs; 7 percent cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 40 percent of feeder and calf supply. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

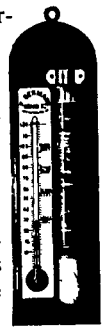
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

NOVEMBER 15-21, 1999

ST. HILDA, NOVEMBER 18.

HISTORIC WEATHER

November, take flail, lets ships no more sail!" advises the weather lore. November 15, 1900, gave Watertown, New York, 45 inches of snow November 16, 1958, dropped 6 inches of snow in Tucson, Arizona. That day in 1959, the thermometer dropped to -53° F in Lincoln, Montana, and Helena, Montana, got 21.5 inches of snow. On November 17, 1927, Washington, D.C., was hit by a tornado If this marked the end of mild-mannered Indian summer (traditionally Nov. 11-20), we wonder what winter brought! In Sweden, an earlier November warm spell is called "All Saints Rest." If so, then this contrary weather on its heels might be called "All Saints Come Marching In"!



The misted early mornings will be cold;
The little puddles will be roofed with glass.

– Elinor Wylie

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Add a little horseradish to your sandwiches now, to keep colds at bay.

POTATO GRATIN IN MINUTES

2 cups whole milk
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon chopped fresh thyme
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter
2 large baking potatoes, peeled and sliced thinly
1/4 cup grated Parmesan

Preheat broiler and grease four 4-ounce ramekins. Boil milk and stir in seasonings and butter. Add potatoes and simmer for 10 minutes. Place ramekins onto a baking sheet, spoon potato mixture evenly among ramekins, sprinkle with grated Parmesan, and heat under broiler for 5 to 7 minutes.

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If the fire burns fiercely and bright, there will be dry weather. If dull, rain.

If the stove iron rusts overnight, expect rain.

Turkeys perched in the trees and refusing to descend indicate snow.

As November 21, so the winter.

OPINION

Animal Agriculture Essential To Ensure Adequate Global Food Supply

The Council for Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST), an international consortium of 38 scientific and professional societies, released a report in which an international task force of 13 scientists discusses projected demand for human food and the importance of animal agriculture in meeting these needs. These scientists represented a wide range of environmental and agriculture viewpoints. And they concluded that animal agriculture is an integral part of food-producing systems, with foods of animal origin representing about one-sixth of human food energy and one-third of human food protein on a global basis.

The report highlighted one assessment of the role of animals in food production that is usually overlooked. On a global basis, less than three kilograms of grain are required to produce a kilogram of meat from and of the species and less than one kilogram of grain is needed to produce a kilogram of milk and eggs. On the average, ruminants (cattle, sheep, and goats) return more human food per unit of human-edible feed consumed because most of their feed is materials that cannot be consumed directly by humans. Of course, poultry and hogs are most efficient on the basis of total feed intake.

We believe animal agriculture will continue to be an important part of food-producing systems. Investment in agricultural production research and development and implementation of policies that encourage production while protecting the environment will be essential to achieve the goal of an adequate global food supply

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Do Soil Testing

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, reminds us soil testing is a very important activity. A regular program of testing farm fields is a must in today's regulatory environment After a few years of regular testing to establish a base line information on fields, it is not necessary to test every field each year

Anderson suggests the field should be tested every time the crop to be grown changes If crops are not being rotated, then the field should be tested every third or fourth year. This allows you to monitor the nutrient levels in the soil If the level of nutrients increases over time, fertilizer applications may be reduced. If nutrient levels are falling, additional fertilizer may be needed to keep soils productive.

When taking soil samples, send them to the same lab each year This gives you more accurate data to look at soil fertility trends over years Pennsylvania farmers should consider sending their samples to the Penn State lab. Fertilizer recommendations made by Penn State are based on research done in Pennsylvania under Pennsylvania growing conditions

To Balance Cow Rations

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, remind us if cows have been having low fat tests, appetites are sluggish, lose too much flesh and lose flesh too quickly, fail to peak well and drop off milk too quickly, are "loose" and passing undigested grain and fiber in their feces, tend to be ketotic and develop laminitis, chances are they may be consuming too much grain or protein

These problems are costly With today's slim margins, there is no room for costly mistakes Test your forages for nutritive value and consult a trained nutritionist for specific recommendations Formulate a balanced ration and feed it properly Aim to maintain an even level of high activity in the rumen throughout the day Total mixed rations may help you accomplish this

Otherwise, avoid feeding large slugs of grain at any one time Limit intakes to about 6 to 8 pounds per feeding Try to feed some forages before feeding grain.

To Test For MUN

Excess protein in the ration and in the blood stream is expensive and unhealthy, according to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent. One good way to monitor protein metabolism in dairy cattle is to use the milk urea nitrogen (MUN) test on individual cows on a regular basis This may be done through the DHIA program Normal MUN vales are 12 to 16 mg/dl Higher levels mean.

1 Too much protein is being fed

2 Rumen degradable protein levels are high 3 Too little rumen degradable energy is being fed Thus, not all of the rumen degradable protein can be utilized and some of it spills over into the blood stream as urea nitrogen This is a costly situation for several reasons

1 More purchased feed ends up being excreted and wasted

2 A considerable amount of energy is needed to metabolize and excrete the excess protein. Less energy is available to the cow. As a result, milk production, body condition and conception suffer. MUN values generally increase when rations contain increased amounts of haylage, lush pastures and rapidly digested protein supplements such as soybean oil meal and urea This is especially true when there is not an accompanying decrease in the use of protein supplements and an increase in the amount of rumen degradable energy being fed, such as high moisture corn, barley, wheat, molasses, etc Low levels of MUN may result from feeding too little protein, too little rumen degradable protein or too little energy This is more apt to occur on rations containing considerable amounts of hay, especially low protein and low energy hay.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Integrity is one of several paths. It distinguishes itself from the others because it is the right path and the only one upon which you will never get lost."

DRYING UP YOUR JORDAN

November 14, 1999

Background Scripture:
Joshua 3
Devotional Reading:
Joshua 4:15-24

I could write a whole column on Joshua 3 and skillfully avoid the point at which you the reader may stumble. I could talk about how God confirmed Joshua's leadership. I could write about how the faith which the people displayed in obeying Joshua's command. I could ignore completely the difficult questions raised by this passage.

The story is not as complicated as it appears. Joshua called the people together to tell them that their crossing of the flooded Jordan River would be a sign of God's presence. Twelve men—one from each of the tribes—were to be selected. When the priests' feet touched the flood waters of the Jordan, wherever they stood, the waters would be backed up so that the people of Israel could walk across.

It is a fascinating and inspiring story, but it leaves us with some nagging questions. Did God really dry up the Jordan River so that the Israelites could cross over? Or is this simply a mythical retelling of an actual event in which the people witnessed God's help? Shall we look for similar miracles today? And, if God does not give us signs such as these, what does that mean?

SIGNS & WONDERS

First of all, I need to remind you that the term "miracle" is not a common term in the Bible. In my RSV concordance there are only twelve verses in which a word in Hebrew or Greek is translated as "miracle." In fact, even these translations are not accurate renderings of the original words. Some Bible translations do not use the word "miracle" at all. In neither the Old or New Testament was there a concept of "miracle," which is today popularly understood as a supernatural event. The terms "supernatural" and "natural" had no meaning in Biblical times.

Instead, the usual rending of such events was "signs and wonders" and my Bible dictionary speaks of it as an "event... in which one sees an act or revelation of God." The three principal New Testament words for miracles are dunameis ("powers" or "acts of power," "mighty works"), terata ("wonders") and semeia ("signs"). The question as to whether these signs and wonders violated the natural order—the problem with which we wrestle—never occurred to them.

So, in both the Old and New Testaments people saw God at work in wonderful events which were beyond their ordinary experience. If that is what you mean by "miracle," that I have no problem in confirming that God still performs signs and wonders today. He may have divided the Red Sea for Moses, stopped up the Jordan for Joshua, and multiplied the loaves and fishes for Jesus. I don't doubt that these things can happen. At the same time I don't believe they have to happen today in order for us to see God in the signs and wonders he does perform in our midst.

GOD'S PRESENCE

I have never seen anyone walk on water, but I have seen a man walk on coals so hot I could not approach them. I have known people who believe that they received a healing by means which appeared to them to be a sign of God's love and care. I knew a woman who was so accurate in prophesying airplane crashes that the FAA gave her a direct line to report her visions. You see, it is not the possibility or impossibility of the events that makes them "signs and wonders," but the extent to which we can see in them the presence of God.

My call to the ministry 48 years ago, an indescribable experience on a high speed trolley line between Philadelphia and Norristown, PA, was a mystical experience that changed my life. I can't tell you whether it was "natural" or "supernatural": but I think I would be content to call it "supernormal" — beyond my normal experience. I realize that psychologists might explain it away, but all that matters is that in that experience I heard God speak to me.

So, the question remains: must God perform "impossible" extravaganzas in order to reveal himself to us? Must God dry up your own Jordan River in order to give you a sign for your life? I think not. If he does, that is a bonus, but in the meantime look for the "signs and wonders" he places all about you.

Ritchie WaterMaster

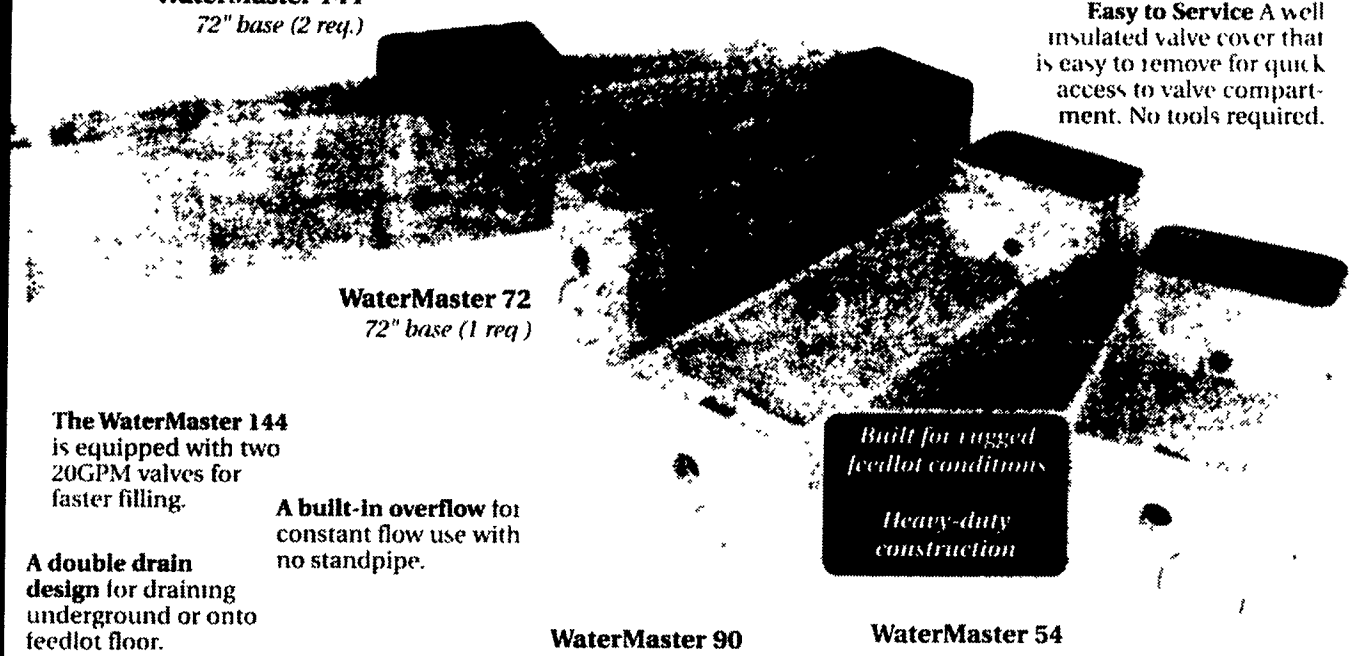
Fresh, Clean Water–FAST!

The entire WaterMaster family of fountains feature the time proven Ritchie Cattle Valve, known for refilling faster than cattle can drink. This makes a larger capacity trough unnecessary, totally eliminating stagnant water, and reducing cleanout drain time to less than 45 seconds.

The WaterMaster is designed to easily replace existing steel and concrete waterers.

WaterMaster 144
72" base (2 req.)

Easy to Service A well insulated valve cover that is easy to remove for quick access to valve compartment. No tools required.



WaterMaster 72
72" base (1 req.)

Built for rugged feedlot conditions

Heavy-duty construction

The WaterMaster 144 is equipped with two 20GPM valves for faster filling.

A built-in overflow for constant flow use with no standpipe.

A double drain design for draining underground or onto feedlot floor.

WaterMaster 90 WaterMaster 54

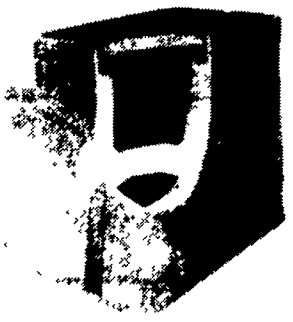
Easy to Install and Service Large access doors on each end and lift-out cover on top; stainless steel hardware.

WM 54 and 90 feature a finger-litt (non-locking) cover for ease in servicing.

A water trainer device that encourages new cattle to drink

One of the drain plugs can be used in the valve compartment opening to conserve water during cleaning.

2 3/4" opening in the bottom of the valve compartment for use with gravity-style dairy systems.



No Gasket to Freeze A uniquely designed, patented water seal that keeps cold air away from valve, eliminating the need for a rubber gasket which will freeze, crack and tear

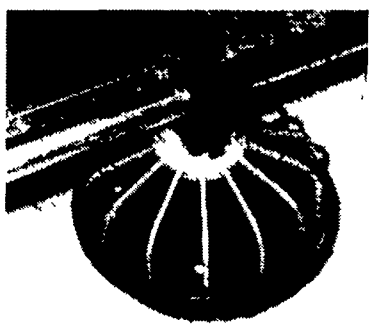
Pax

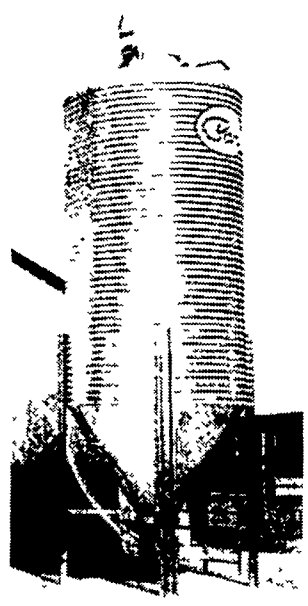
Boosts Your Efficiency and Products with these Innovative Products...



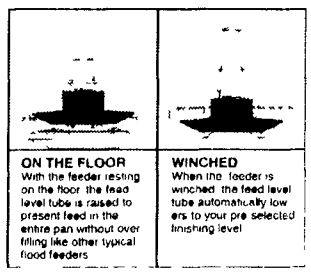
QUICK-START

The Pax QUICK-START™ pan feeding system grows chicks into FINISHED broilers efficiently.

Start chicks with the feeder resting on the floor and the feed pan entirely filled The Pax QUICK-START™ pan provides easy access to plenty of fresh feed – with no accumulation of stale feed in the drop tube – attracting even the smallest chicks to begin feeding right away



Feed Storage and Delivery Systems



ON THE FLOOR
With the feeder resting on the floor the feed level tube is raised to present feed in the entire pan without over filling like other typical flood feeders
WINCHED
When the feeder is winched the feed level tube automatically lowers to your pre selected finishing level

Flexible Auger for Low Volume, Standard Volume, High Volume, as well as High Moisture (up to 25°) and pellet applications

"What's up, Kay?"

"Well, I upgraded the computer, revamped our record-keeping,

moved some funds in our retirement plan,

forward-contracted my milk,

got a great deal on a generator,

cut my health insurance premiums,

and set up a line of credit for some new equipment."

Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders Help Create a Vision

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Across the United States and throughout recent history, the dairy industry has been an industry of great change: AI, automated milking systems, no-till farming, TMRs, UHT processing, and biotechnology. Many of these changes caused upheaval within the dairy industry. In order to reap the benefits of modern science, progressive industry leaders embraced these new technologies and incorporated them into their management systems, processing plants, and marketing programs.

As we enter the new Millennium, newer and greater challenges face our industry. Gone are the days of strong government supports. Waste management has become a real issue. Food safety regulations must be met. Super Stores, and flavored milk are changing the retail markets. All aspects of the industry continue along the path of consolidation under which it has operated since the end of World War II.

While science and technology will continue to be a cornerstone of advancement, the greatest challenge we currently face is in helping the PEOPLE within the dairy industry to maximize returns on their human capital.

With these factors in mind the PA Dairy Stakeholders have set out to explore the major issues that must be faced if we are to grow and maintain the strength of the Pennsylvania dairy industry, and indeed that of the entire northeastern US.

Join us at our 1999 Conference, "Harnessing the Forces" Dec. 15-16, 1999 at the Holiday Inn, Grantville, PA as we come together to focus on how we can individually and collectively influence the positive growth of the Pennsylvania Dairy Industry.

Program Highlights: "Forces Affecting Agriculture – Your Role in the Future of Pennsylvania's Dairy Industry" Dr. Michael Boehlje, Professor, Dept. of Ag Econ, Purdue University.

Breakout Sessions: "Helping Create a Vision of the Future" offer your practical solutions to industry challenges: 1) Leveraging Change, 2) Leadership, 3) Economics, 4) Building Effective Teams

"Harnessing the Forces – National and World Implications, State Opportunities" Dr. David Blandford, Head, Dept. of Ag. Econ & Rural Soc, Penn State

"Marketing & Pricing – What's up with the Feds" Dr. Ken Bailey, Assoc. Professor, Dairy Marketing & Policy, Penn State.

"The Realities of Retail Level Marketing" Michael Drexler, Category Manager of Dairy, Kosher and Specialty Foods, Giant Food Stores, Inc.

"The US Dairy Industry – What's in store for you?" Gregg Engles. Chairman and CEO, Suiza Foods Corporation.

ties including York and Franklin — any counties that have peaches. And while not all testing has been completed so far there is no indication the virus has spread, but Kleiner warns that "next year we're going to find out a lot of things. Everybody's going to be looking for it. The outcome? Who knows what's going to happen." He said additional testing will be done in the spring as soon as buds break.

"As of right now their plans are probably going to be to eradicate those orchards that are infected, but these are all decisions that are going to be made in December," Kleiner said.

On Monday night, Ruth Welliver of the PDA said, "We don't mean to be evasive. There is just a lot we don't know."

The European scientists invited to share their knowledge about the virus and how to battle it will come from France, Spain and Hungary.

Plum pox virus infects stonefruit trees, such as peaches, nectarines and plums, causing sharply reduced production, unsightly blotching on the fruit and eventually foul-tasting fruit. The virus was detected in North America for the first time in Adams County in September.

Plum pox was first discovered in Europe about 1913. The USDA plant pathologist Laurene Levy said European scientists estimated there are 100 million infected stone fruit trees on their continent now. The only known treatment is to destroy infected trees.

The virus has been compared to the avian influenza epidemic which hit poultry farms in recent years causing farmers to destroy their flocks and putting major economic hardships on their businesses.

But Keliner has said previously, that unlike the poultry farmer who was able to establish his business again within several months, fruitgrowers who must destroy their trees will not see another peach off a virus-free tree for six years.

Stephen Poe of the USDA, said rather than be too conservative, causing the destruction of too many trees and imposition of too large a quarantine, it is best to wait and set policies. For now, waiting is the fastest way to get the best program possible, he said.

There are four different strains of the virus active in Europe requiring different techniques to eradicate it. The "D" strain, found in Adams County, is one of the slowest-moving strains, giving scientists hope they can contain and eradicate it here.

The agriculture department staffs are not waiting to prepare the way to compensate growers forced to destroy their trees. Poe said the USDA is crafting the necessary language for U.S. Secretary Agriculture Dan Glickman to declare an "extraordinary emergency."

Any trees destroyed before that declaration will not be eligible for compensation, Poe said.

November 10, 1999

The Honorable Daniel Glickman
United States Department of Agriculture
Office of the Secretary
Washington, D.C. 20250

Dear Secretary Glickman.

This letter is written concerning Plum Pox Virus in Adams County, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Declaration of an Extraordinary Emergency, and Federal indemnification payments.

As you know, this infection can inflict severe economic hardship on the fruit growers in Pennsylvania And, the virus could spread to the other fruit regions of our Nation.

Declaration of an Extraordinary Emergency would be good public policy and it would position fruit growers in Pennsylvania for Federal indemnification payments related to eradication. There should be a quick pursuit of these two actions. We must contain the virus and restore the traditional good health of Pennsylvania's vibrant fruit industry It is important for Pennsylvania. It is important for the Nation

On behalf of our fruit growers, I thank you very much for considering my request

With warm personal regards, I remain

Sincerely,

SAMUEL E HAYES, JR

Maria Turse, adviser for migrant education in the county, said that in a town such as Sambilla, unemployment can be as high as 60 percent. Many are forced to migrate to the U.S. for jobs — and the mushroom industry has some of the best-paying "nonskilled" jobs around.

Alonzo said that the workers average $7-$8 per hour.

"We supply the housing at the site," said Alonzo. "That's what the consular office came and looked at with us."

Pietro Industries had recently renovated two locations, accommodating eight people per house and 2-4 people per bedroom. Each house has a dining area, living room, kitchen, and bathroom.

Mushrooms at Pietro are grown in a controlled environment. A typical room measures 40-foot wide by 70-foot long. The mushrooms are grown on "bunk beds," essentially, tiered six high. The beds hold pasteurized compost, creating the right growing medium for mushrooms.

Mushroom seeds, called "spawn," are planted into the compost. A root system is established. Peat moss is layered on top to hold water and to allow the mushrooms to fruit.

The time to grow a mushroom? About eight weeks, noted Alonzo. The environment is created to simulate the forest, he said — high relative humidity, damp conditions, cooler temperatures, and darkness.

However, it's an old wives' tale that mushrooms need to be kept in the dark. Mushrooms can grow in light. But that's an unnecessary expense.

Years ago, the most amount of mushrooms that could be harvested under the best of growing conditions was about two pounds per square foot. "We grow seven or more pounds a square foot now," Alonzo said.

The industry regularly updates the systems used to increase output, controlling air flow, adjusting moisture levels, and using different types of wood beds. The workers are beset with an array of responsibilities, including checking the water beds, temperatures, carbon dioxide levels, and other items. They have to hand-pick the mushroom and separate them for quality.

Although this kind of work is considered "unskilled" in the marketplace, Alonzo said that the workers need to learn how to separate the mushrooms by what the consumer wants. The company pays by piece rate.

The workers put in up to 80 hours a week. Although Pietro gives them a day off, some workers, Alonzo said, choose to work seven days a week.

Work begins at 4 a.m. and lasts until about noon — although work has gone on until 4 or 5 p.m. some days.

In the meantime, the company supplies the "camps." The housing for the migrant workers "are inspected by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture regularly," said Alonzo. "We have to meet the standards of the state for housing under seasonal farm labor."

Latino Community

Some workers vary their length of work. Older men, according to Alonzo, return after four months. One worker stayed 3-4 years.

The majority return to work in the mushroom farm. About 80-90 percent come back, said Alonzo, but a few return only to pursue other agriculture and employment opportunities.

Of the migrant workers, some include Puerto Rican and local workers.

The industry is impressed by their integrity, Alonzo said. "They're really good people. But there's cultural barriers that go on. We deal with the community's lack of understanding of their cultures. Although they might be different, they still have the same values — family, religion, and good work ethics."

Maria Turse of migrant education noted that the Latino workers read their community newspapers and listen to Spanish-speaking TV and radio. Good support networks have been established because of the huge population in a central location.

But the Latino community's attempts to reach out and educate the local, established population has not been as effective. Partly, the indifferent media is to blame, according to Zaida Casals, retired English as second language teacher from the West Chester School District.

Herself a 4-H leader, Casals noted that recently, the county celebrated Hispanic Awareness Month. Henderson High School hosted several active community members as a sort of "outreach" to teach others about the work and culture of the Latino community.

Casals said she called all the local newspapers, radio stations, and TV stations.

Unfortunately, no media covered the events.

"The learning curve that this historical community needs to go through is a long one to accept the Latino culture," said Alonzo.

The recent mushroom festival included 300 migrant family members and people from the community, with support from the Kennett-Square run charities.

The charities also supports the After the Bell program in the schools. This program is an effort of the community and school district and migrant education to provide after-school learning programs for children of migrant families, according to Turse.

Volunteers in the program provide a couple hours after school for children not involved in regular sports or other extracurricular activities. The volunteers teach ceramics, business, finance, music, art, computers, and other things, said Alonzo.

The program "keeps all those kids that aren't doing sports in the school doing something positive instead of going home, not having parents there, and getting intro trouble," he said.

"These are some of the things that aren't getting put in the paper."

"We have to work together to present a positive picture of the Latino community," said Szoke of the extension office. This program, along with tours of the mushroom facilities where the community works, "shows the cooperation, and why people can work together."

Szoke noted another celebration is scheduled Friday, Dec. 17, at the American Legion Hall in Kennett Square. Called Posada Navidena, a "wonderful celebration," Szoke said, the event will also act as an outreach to the community. Appropriate care package items for youth up to the age of 18 are needed, she said. Contact Szoke at (610) 696-3500.

"We're having a shortage of labor right now and we're going through Harrisburg and down in D.C. to encourage the ability to get more Latinos to come up," said Alonzo. "It's not just the mushroom growers, it's not just Chester County, it's not just Pennsylvania, it's all over the country."

The Latino community is home to soccer leagues, there are community activities, there's just hard work in putting food on everyone's table in the community, he said.

"(Latinos) energize the economy of the area," said Turse. "There's a great deal of misconception today that 'foreigners' — whether it's the Mexicans or somebody else — have taken the jobs from Americans. But these are jobs that nobody else wants."

Alonzo said the mushroom industry pays better than gas stations and other service-type economies that provide only minimum wage.

Alonzo said, "My guys can make $24,000 a year — if they stay a whole year — granted, they're working 50-55 hours a week doing it, but another guy under $5.50 an hour at the gas station 40 hours a week — you know, he's not making that, and he doesn't have free housing, either."

The Latino culture is an integral part of everyone's life here.

"If they weren't here, then the mushroom industry wouldn't be here. If they weren't here, then the yard services wouldn't be able to operate as effectively, there's a lot of businesses that wouldn't be here, the food would be more expensive on the tables. But nobody sees that impact, because it's foreign to them."

Said Alonzo, "The Latinos know they are coming to a community that, historically, hasn't been theirs. They've tried to make it partially their own, and they're very open to the Americans coming into theirs, but sometimes they feel the Americans aren't very open with letting them into their events."

Chester 4-H takes an active role in supporting the Latino community. Charles Wollaston, a 4-H volunteer for more than 40 years, checks out the display.

Dealer Meeting Held

While celebrating their 80th year in business, P. L Rohrer, Inc., Smoketown, held a dealer meeting for 30 Pennsylvania dealers Wednesday, to show what's new in grasses and alfalfa. In addition, management information was given that will help farmers with their grazing and forage-growing efforts.

Earl Rohrer, owner, said there is increased interest in intensive and rotational grazing and the meeting is presented to help dealers with pasture management information. Presenters were Jonathan Rupert, product development manager for AMPAC Seed Company from Tangent, OR, and Michael Fleming, from Lititz, who is a master sales representative for Cyanamid. Rohrer said there are a lot of variety-choices from rye grasses to grazing alfalfa. Information on corn varieties was also part of the presentation. Rohrer said farmers have been hit with both the drought and low commodity prices, but he feels confident they will receive enough help to snap back for spring planting. In the photo from left, Fleming, Rohrer, and Rupert.

Chester County Honors Century Farm Family At Banquet

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — It wasn't long ago that Joanne Sharpless Cruse came across a note in a book with a date she can't forget — Nov. 10, 1976, the day she led her father, Alfred Sharpless, to rest.

Cruse is the same age her father was when he died.

Joanne's family, honored with a special Century Farm recognition at the highlight of Wednesday evening's Chester County Cooperative Extension banquet, said her father remains a presence to her and knows that, perhaps more than ever before, farming is a challenge and a struggle.

With her family members close by, Cruse spoke about the sacrifices that continue to support a family farm. She also remembers what it was like growing up on the farm.

"You never think you're going to have the problems that you listen to your parents discuss," Cruse said to about 105 guests of the extension during the annual banquet Wednesday evening at the East Brandywine Firehall in Guthriesville.

Joanne, who lives in Kennett Square, said her great-grandfather, Joshua Sharpless, began farming in 1894. It was a Quaker farm. The farm has been a dairy (raising great golden-milk Guernseys). Now the 135-acre Woods Edge Farm in London Grove, West Marlborough Township, is operated by the 6th generation of the Sharpless, including her two sons Bill and Tom, and Tom's 13-year-old son, Kurt. Joanne has help from a friend, Bill Dreisbach.

The farm, Dreisbach noted, raises corn, hay, and soybeans. Dreisbach, with about 50 years experience in farming, said the farm delivers hay to auction in New Holland and Leola.

Dreisbach said he began driving tractor when he was 11 years old. In those days, he said, you tied the wire to the bales by hand.

Joanne, daughter of Alfred and Charlotte Sharpless, said the farm was blessed with a "beautiful family." She said that sacrifices are key.

Cruse remembers her father saying that, to make ends meet, "we'll have to sell another cow to get the tuition paid." And he did, she said — remembering the sale of one prize Guernsey cow.

Joanne said she received a home economics degree from Mansfield State University and taught for some time. But she has done lots of work with 4-H and extension.

On Wednesday, she read surprise congratulations from a friend and college roommate, Pauline Neal of Camp Hill, hand-delivered to the banquet from the department of agriculture. Joanne said that Pauline is a school teacher in the Harrisburg school system.

Joanne Sharpless Cruse's family was honored with a special Century Farm recognition at the highlight of Wednesday evening's Chester County Cooperative Extension banquet. From left, Tom Cruse and son Kurt, Tom's brother Bill, Joanne, and Rep. Chris Ross, who presented the award.

Fred Davis, southeast regional director for Penn State Cooperative Extension, left, commended Cheryl Fairbairn, livestock agent, for her devotion to extension for 20 years, including Fairbairn's work with 4-H youth animal projects and the Beef Council.

State Sen. Robert J. Thompson (R-19th), far right, spoke about the challenges faced in dealing with a highly conservative rural population. Also speaking at the banquet were Pa. Rep. Chris Ross (R-158th), far left, who spoke about the "tremendous amount of devotion from generation to generation" exhibited by the century farm owners. In center is Tony Jasienski, president of the extension board of directors.

The letter described the joys of hard work, using intelligence to overcome problems, and "refusing to give up," she said.

Joanne has two sons, Tom and Bill, both in London Grove, and a daughter, Eileen Odell, in Hopkinton, Mass. Cruse has five grandchildren.

Presenting the award was Pa. Rep. Chris Ross (R-158th), who spoke about the "tremendous amount of devotion from generation to generation" exhibited by the century farm owners.

Other speakers addressed friends and family of Chester extension.

State Sen. Robert J. Thompson (R-19th) spoke about the challenges faced in dealing with a highly conservative rural population.

A big challenge, noted Thompson, was trying to come up with ways to attract young people to vote and to get involved with the political system.

He said that Chester County, despite its affluence and education, reflects national voting trends. Less than 11 percent of the adults in the county actually vote.

It's even worse for young people, 18-24. Those voters are "dwindling," he said.

When those 18 years or older were provided with the privilege to vote, about 50 percent of those eligible did so, years ago. Now, the figure is low and continues to drop off.

The challenge is to "turn that group onto public service and voting," he said. "We need to make young people realize they have a role to play."

Some think politicians are merely self-serving and don't have the interest of the youth at heart. But politicians must be able to cultivate their constituents — including youth, noted Thompson.

As the population of those 60 years and older expands, it will be critical to allow young people to afford housing and contribute to the investment base of the community.

Thompson also spoke about how important extension service has been and how their work "remains constant," he said.

The past week in Harrisburg has proven interesting, said Thompson. Both houses passed a crucially needed drought aid package for the farm community. The Senate originally proposed a $50 million aid package, yet a larger one, with far better benefits, was under review in the House. The package that should pass before December may be more than $50 million, Thompson said.

Also, after nearly a decade of work, Thompson said that this week Pennsylvania passed a statewide building code. The governor should be able to sign the legislation in a few days.

Also, the governor just signed a liquor control bill that actually provides provisions for products grown and made in the state — and that includes wine. Thompson, who served as chair of the Senate Committee on Law and Justice, a committee that has jurisdiction over the state liquor control board and state police, helped shepherd the house bill through to help the wine and grape growing industry. Pennsylvania's grape growing industry, said Thompson, is the fourth largest in the country.

Another provision allows areas outside of the state to provide a limited quantity of grapes to bolster the supply to Pennsylvania wineries.

He commended Penn State extension for hiring a full-time multicounty regional grape growing extension agent, Mark Chien, to help the growers continue to expand.

Another challenge Thompson faces is controlling urban growth.

"All of us love Chester County and all of us want to stay here, and others want to come," he said. "Farmland is dwindling too quickly for comfort."

He praised the model growth landscape management plan put forward by the county as a "national model."

A new education bill gives school districts tools to contract with profit and nonprofit organizations to provide facilities for troubled students. The students can be moved out of regular classrooms into an environment Thompson said will allow them to get help and "not be a hindrance to kids," Thompson said, who want an education.

The plan, advanced by Philadelphia-based legislators, will be adopted statewide. Also, teachers will have to return to college for continuing education to be certified. Now, teachers have to act as "surrogate parents as much as teachers," said Thompson.

But for Chester Countians, the number one concern is coming up with ways to address the problem of transportation. Teamwork with officials and community groups is required.

Colin Hanna, county commissioner, noted that "our commitment to extension and agriculture remains secure."

At the banquet, Karen Martynick noted that in 7-8 years, more than 15,000 acres of open space, much in ag preservation, has been preserved. About 70 municipal parks in the county have popped up, she noted.

The county recently conducted a successful re-assessment and revaluation on Act 319.

Fred Davis, southeast regional director for Penn State Cooperative Extension, noted a position has been opened for a horticulture agent and will be filled in January or early February.

Davis praised the work of migrant education and the strength of the cooperation in the community. The greatest potential staff for businesses in the county is composed of migrants, and Penn state remains "very cognizant" of their contributions, Davis noted.

Davis commended Cheryl Fairbairn, livestock agent, for her devotion to extension for 20 years, including Fairbairn's work with 4-H youth animal projects and the Beef Council. "I am especially pleased to call her one of ours," Davis said.

Russ Albright of the Romano 4-H Center board said the year was excellent, with more than 400 animals at the roundup in the summer.

The fall fund-raising auction raised more than $19,000, he said, for the center. The facility can allow revenue generation with the recently finished addition.

Next year's auction, said Albright, is scheduled Sept. 23.

At the business meeting, Tony Jasienski, president of the extension board of directors, announced that two new directors were nominated to the board to serve three-year terms. They are Victoria N. Duckworth, Malvern, Master Gardener volunteer, and Martiena Besecker, Malvern, a realtor at Prudential Fox and Roach Realtors.

Milk Markets — What Lies Ahead?

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co)-This is a question on the minds of many milk producers as they watch the volatility in cheese prices, which have a major influence on milk prices, and as they await the outcome of the reform of Feeder Milk Marketing Order system and how it will affect the pricing of milk

Uncertainty in the milk market makes it difficult for producers to make plans regarding the future of their dairy business

An informational meeting has been scheduled to help producers address these issues and concerns It will be held 7 30 p m on Monday, November 15th at the Harvest Drive Restaurant located about one mile southwest of Intercourse From Rt 340 west of Intercourse, travel south on Clearview Road to Harvest Drive, turn right to the restaurant and motel on the left

Speaker will be Dr Kenneth Bailey, Associate Professor of Dairy Markets and Policies at Penn State Dr Bailey's weekly dairy outlook, along with other dairy markets can be found on his web site (http //www.aers psu edu /dairyoutlook/.)

This meeting is being conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension of Lancaster County

Infraconic Heat Efficiency

By maximizing the conversion of gas to radiant energy, the L.B White Infraconic gives you more heat for your fuel dollar as well as a broader area of heat output and more consistent temperature at bird level With more consistent temperatures and a larger 'comfort zone', the infraconic helps your birds grow by keeping them warm, making it easier for them to find feed and water, and keeping the litter drier

Lightweight and easy to install, the Infraconic is also simple to clean and maintain. And because the Infraconic hangs higher than other brooders, it's easier to work around during production or clean out.

L.B. White Infraconic brooders are available in 17,100 and 34,200 Btuh outputs, as well as your choice of LP or natural gas.

Winter Is Soon Here, Are Your Heaters Ready?

Flexible and economical heat:

•Models to meet different needs, with heat outputs from 30,000 to 325,000 Btuh, plus variable outputs for greater heating efficiency.

•All models are available for use with propane or natural gas

•Compact profiles and indoor or outdoor mounting capability for easy installation and efficient use of space

Reliable and durable:

•Sentinel System III advanced diagnostic controls monitor all primary heater functions for dependable worry-free operation.

•Sentinel System III diagnostics pinpoint potential heater interruptions quickly and accurately to save time and money.

•High quality components and solid case construction washdowns and years of dependable service in corrosive environments.

Diversity is Part of the Plan

DAVID BIGELOW
PA DHIA Marketing Manager

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "Our technician, Ella Bicksler, is a reliable, accurate and very dependable person," exclaims David Wolfskill of Mar Ann Farms in Berks County. "Same-day test reports are very useful to the daily management of our herd." Mar Ann Farms is a partnership formed by David and his father, Mark Wolfskill. The farm is comprised of 110 cows with a herd average of 23,000 on a 2X milking program. Total mixed ration round out the feeding program utilizing the feed being raised on the 510 acres of owned and 300 acres of rented ground. With over fifty years of testing through PA DHIA, improvements continue to be at the top of the agenda for Mar Ann Farms. An expansion program currently under way with a new, automated parlor just over the hill will keep this aggressive operation on the cutting edge of technology. Good udder health practices including post and pre-dipping along with using individual towels are instrumental in keeping somatic cell counts at acceptable ranges. Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) is important to the management of the farm as they work with their Agway consultant to balance the rations.

David Wolfskill is quick to point out that the hired labor plays an extremely important role in the success of the dairy operation. Also, David recognizes the benefits reaped through PA DHIA, including

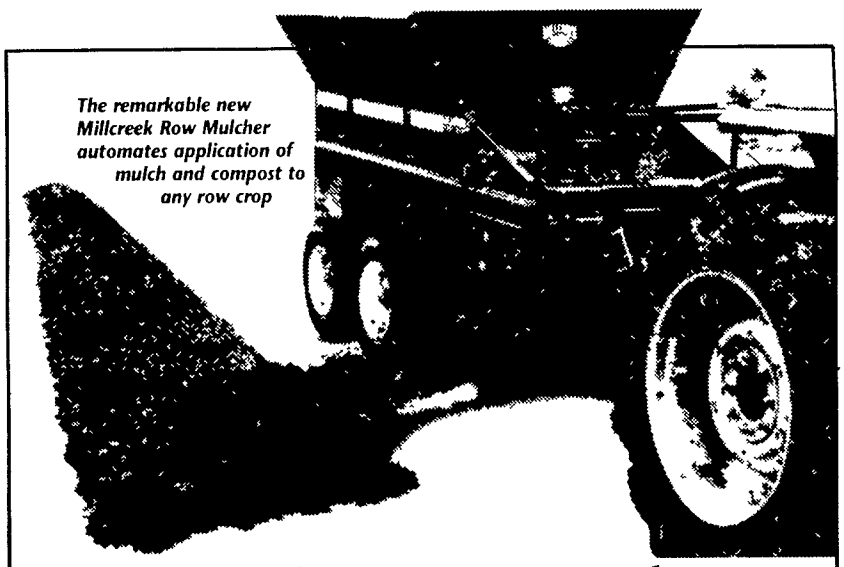
The remarkable new Millcreek Row Mulcher automates application of mulch and compost to any row crop



Apply compost and organic mulch to any row crop automatically

The versatile Millcreek Row Mulcher makes different sized mulch beds as you need, from 18 to 48 wide, from 1/2 to 10" deep A mulching program can help you produce a healthier crop while reducing pesticide requirements

From tree fruit to vegetable beds, from bramble crops to vineyards, organic mulch and compost can reduce chemical input for weed suppression, retain soil moisture, and improve soil fertility by adding organic matter to sandy and clay soils

Now Millcreek eliminates the costly labor needed for organic mulch and compost application The remarkable new Millcreek Row Mulcher works with all types of organic material, and even lets you adjust the depth and width of the mulch rows

Starting under $5000, no other machine compares when it comes to capabilities, versatility, and cost effectiveness Rugged construction Five sizes, from 3 4 to 13 cubic yard capacity Custom designs Call today for a free color brochure, or to discuss your specific needs

Maryland/Virginia And Utz Lake Purchase Valley Milk Products

RESTON, Va —Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative and a Virginia company, called Utz Lake, have purchased Valley Milk Products in Strasburg, Va Together they formed a limited liability corporation, Valley Milk Products LLC The business was purchased on November 1, 1999, from Sodiaal North America Corporation, a French dairy cooperative headquartered in Harleysville, Pa

Since 1930, Valley Milk Products has specialized in the custom manufacturing of condensed and dried dairy products and in butter production The plant has been an important component of Maryland and Virginia's milk balancing program for over 25 years

Maryland and Virginia and Utz Lake formed Valley Milk Products LLC to generate profits and increase milk balancing efficiency in the middle Atlantic area Maryland and Virginia's Class I milk sales have increased significantly since its consolidation with Carolina Virginia Milk Producers, and therefore has a greater need for milk balancing

The LLC will complement Maryland and Virginia's balancing plant in Laurel, Md and will continue to balance milk for other dairy cooperatives.

In a letter released to members on Friday, November 5, Secretary and General Manager Robert Shore wrote, "The Board of Directors and I are pleased to bring additional resources and cooperative profitability to Maryland and Virginia through the formation of this new partnership This purchase plant profits to our strengthens our milk balancing program and adds another source of company's operations"

Utz Lake is a corporation owned by Donald Utz and William Lake Utz has been the general manager of Valley Milk Products for 17 years, Lake has been the controller for nine years. They will continue management responsibilities for the LLC According to Utz, "This partnership was a natural fit for Valley Milk and Maryland and Virginia We have enjoyed a strong working relationship and look forward to bringing additional value to the dairy industry for many years to come."

Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers, headquartered in Reston, Va , is a milk marketing and processing cooperative which markets milk for over 1,600 dairy farmers in ten states from Pennsylvania to Alabama The cooperative includes Marva Maid, a milk processing division in Newport News, Va , a manufacturing division in Laurel, Md , an equipment division in Frederick, Md ; and a regional office in Charlotte, N C.

Maryland Brown Swiss Breeders To Meet

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Brown Swiss Association will hold its Annual Fall Meeting on Saturday, Nov. 20, 1999 at the St. Paul's Utica Lutheran Church—just outside Frederick—starting at 10:30, and then followed by lunch. This is a very important meeting to attend as much of the association's business and plans are discussed for the year 2000. Highlighting the meeting will be a Convention Wrap-Up, as well as a financial presentation from the convention.

Other topics and reminders are: State Field Day and Fair Reports, Judges for 2000, Show Committee Report, Futurity, Mid-Atlantic Calf Sale, and Junior Activities. A special reminder to juniors is to bring a 5x7 photo for the Bellringer contest and correct information – any questions – call Norma Flemming at 301-475-3440.

A meeting notice has been mailed to the membership for this meeting with directions to the St. Paul's Utica Lutheran Church. Please mark this date on your calendar now. There will be meat, beverage, and paper products provided. Just bring a covered dish to pass for the lunch.

For more information, call Julie Mayer, 410-775-0047 or Cindy Warner, 301-371-5206.

over 12,000 feet of underground tile drain, 2,600 feet of grassed waterways, water control structures, 100 acres of strip cropping and annual plantings of 50 acres or more in cover crops. Richard has also installed a waste storage facility for his dairy herd of 75 which holds 55,733 cubic feet of manure. The manure is applied to his fields according to a nutrient management plan developed by the conservation district. He has fenced a small stream that flows through his pasture and rotates his cows through the pastures to prevent overgrazing.

The Van Licus have demonstrated over the years a great desire to improve their farm to reduce erosion and improve water quality. For this the district presented "Clean Water Farm Award" for Lebanon County.

Conservationist of the Year:

Joseph Waybright of Annville was named Conservationist of the Year for his volunteer efforts in cooperating with numerous landowners within the Quittapahilla Watershed to implement a variety of practices to stabilize streambanks and improve water quality. Joe has been a member of the Quittapahilla Watershed Association steering committee and has volunteered for the Lebanon County Youth Conservation Corps, the Boy Scouts, his church group, and the Pennsylvania Fish & Boat Commission. Joe has a personal interest in restoring and stabilizing the Quittapahilla Creek's eroded streambanks with vegetation and fencing. He has spent many days talking to landowners along the creek trying to convince them that it's in their best interest to install fencing to keep livestock out of the creek and to plant a vegetative buffer to stabilize stream banks and increase aquatic habitat. Joe has been instrumental in recruiting landowners to install over 25,000 feet (nearly 5 miles) of streambank fencing. He has assisted the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in the actual installation and continues to check with the landowners to be sure there are no problems.

In addition to fencing, Joe has installed ladders for sportsmen to safely maneuver over the fences to allow access to local streams for fishing. He has also coordinated volunteer groups to plant riparian buffers, planting over 6,000 trees & shrubs this spring. The conservation efforts of this individual have had a significant impact on the Quittapahilla Creek throughout Annville, but the real impact will be in the future when grasses, trees, and shrubs thrive on the streambanks, providing cooler waters, shelter and food for many aquatic species.

Educator of the Year:

Gerald Stover, an advanced biology teacher at Cedar Crest High School, was awarded the district's Educator of the Year award. A resident of Palmyra, Jerry has advised the SEE Club (Sky, Earth, and Environment Club) for many years and has recently reached a high of 125 students in the club. The SEE Club, in conjunction with the Pinchot Sierra Club and the Quittapahilla Audubon Society, helped clean the "Quittie" Creek, as well as several parks and roadsides on Earth Day, 1999, collecting over 1.25 tons of garbage and 35 discarded tires. Jerry also serves as the high school Envirothon Advisor, educating students in soils, wildlife, forestry, aquatics, and a current environmental issue before competing among other high schools in a country event. Through his teaching, clubs, and personal actions, Jerry has done a great deal to promote awareness of environmental issues and fostered excitement in his students about protecting our environment.

Landowner of the Year:

Dr. G. Victor Rohrer of Palmyra has been chosen to receive the Landowner of the Year award. Victor is a conservation-minded individual who has worked extensively to improve wildlife habitat on his two woodland properties; 58 acres in Lebanon County and 80 acres in Dauphin County. Victor has sought assistance from the Bureau of Forestry to implement a Forest Stewardship Management Plan and has aggressively worked towards implementing those plans, performing most of the work himself. He has planted three acres of trees for timber, two wildlife corridors totaling seven acres, and a one-half acre food plot for wildlife. Victor has erected numerous birdhouses for bluebirds, wood ducks, and geese on the property. In addition to establishing wooded wildlife areas, he has also harvested timber from 50 acres, utilizing the timber stand improvement method of harvesting.

Victor is enthusiastic about forestry and the various uses of any timber stand. He became a VIP-Coverts (Volunteer Initiative Project) in 1994, recruiting volunteers to help publicize the forest stewardship program. "As a member of the forestry advisory committee of Lebanon County and a VIP, he is always willing to share his knowledge with interested individuals wanting to improve their forest management practices," said Ginger Pryor, Horticulturalist of Penn State Extension. "He has been a valuable asset to the extension staff as a resource person on forest issues," notes Ginger.

Dr. Rohrer is a founding member of the Manada Conservancy in Dauphin County, serving on the executive board and board of directors. Furthermore, he is a member of the Nature Conservancy, the Lebanon County extension board, East Hanover Township planning commission, the Swatara Creek Watershed Association, and a life member of the American Forestry Association. Dr. G. Victor Rohrer is truly a conservationist at heart, volunteering unlimited hours to forest stewardship.

Special Recognition Award for Conservation:

Carmeuse Pennsylvania, Inc, recently renamed Pennsylvania Lime Inc., member of Carmeuse, North America, was honored for their outstanding support of community conservation. Carmeuse has donated over 400 tons of limestone to local groups such as the "Quittie" Creek Park, Trout Unlimited, and Ft. Indiantown Gap Fish & Game, to name a few. The stone has been used for everything from streambank protection and stabilization to acid mine drainage buffering. Rausch Run, a small creek in Cold Springs one dead due to acid mine drainage, is now on the rebound as aquatic plants, insects and amphibians return to the creek. In addition, limestone has been used as rip-rap to stabilize numerous areas of streambanks along the Quittapahilla, Swatara and Manada Creeks. Carmeuse has

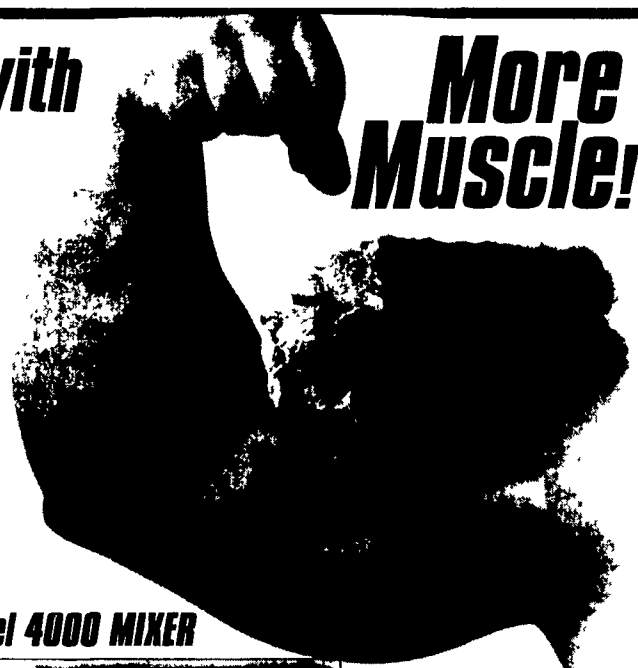
The Mixer with More Muscle!



Model 4000 MIXER

▲ New tub design plus full-length breaker bar improves mixing with less power so you can feed more hay. A 3/8-inch bottom pan adds extra service life. Welds are strong and tolerances precise for stronger side walls. You get more sturdiness and durability in a new Model 4000 Mixer. New design of transition area in lower auger improves feed flow and reduces torque.

▲ New design of discharge door frame allows a more-complete mix of ration. Choose from belt or auger discharges. Choose various discharge lengths. Increase operator convenience and reduce feeding time with optional hydraulic height control of discharge.

▲ Improved drive train provides reliable performance. A shear bolt helps protect the planetary and lower-auger roller chain and sprockets

Struck-level capacities of 205, 305 and 380 cubic feet. Optional side extensions provide struck-level capacities of 232, 343 and 428 cubic feet.

For really tough hay, add knives made from 1/4-inch Quadra-Shark™ steel. The through-hardened knives feature scalloped cutting edges for reduced torque.

also invested stone in stream crossings on numerous farms to allow livestock access to water without deteriorating the banks Eugene Graham, an employee of Carmeuse Pennsylvania, Inc. and liaison to the numerous conservation groups, is proud to work for a company that gives back to the community the way Carmeuse Pennsylvania, Inc does "It's a team effort, from the general manager down through the staff, we all contribute," says Graham. David Lasky, president of Quittapahilla Watershed Association, says of Carmeuse, "they're a tremendous neighbor" and committed to giving back to the community

For their generous contributions to the community in the name of conservation, Carmeuse Pennsylvania, Inc. was awarded the "Special Recognition Award for Conservation" by the Lebanon County Conservation District.

Groundwater Guardian Award:

The Lebanon County Conservation District was also recognized for its work in groundwater education and conservation. Groundwater Guardian is a program of the Groundwater Foundation of Lincoln, Nebraska that supports, recognizes and connects communities that are protecting their groundwater resources. Groundwater Guardian is not a regulatory program, rather it relies on voluntary steps developed at the community level to address local groundwater protection priorities.

Lebanon County has been designated as a Groundwater Guardian Community for the past four years for activities conducted by the Lebanon County Groundwater Education Team, under the leadership of Betty Conner, public director for the Lebanon County Conservation District. Other members of that team include the Lebanon County Penn State cooperative extension, the Lebanon Water Authority, the Myerstown Water Authority, the Lebanon County planning department, and the League of Women Voters. Some of the activities carried out over the last four years include: workshops on wellhead protection for community water supplies and private well owners; video conferences on drinking, water protection, displays for the Lebanon Area Fair; water-testing clinics for private well owners and newspaper articles on water quality sponsored by cooperative extension, participation in the Swatara Creek Watershed conservation planning process, participation in a study of small water systems in Lebanon County conducted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; and participation in the Susquehanna River Basin Commission's Source Water protection community partnerships project.

The safe drinking water act amendments of 1996 mandated that source water assessments must be conducted for all public drinking water systems (the raw groundwater or surface water before treatment). Source water protection however, is voluntary and responsibility rests on the local community or water system to take steps to prevent pollutants from reaching drinking water sources. Here is where Groundwater Guardian comes in to help communities by raising awareness about groundwater, providing information and resources, by inspiring and helping communities develop solutions, by supporting regional and national networks, and by providing recognition. The ultimate goal is preservation of an adequate supply of clean, safe, drinking water for generations to come.

Guest Speaker

Susan Stranahan, author of "Susquehanna River of Dreams," presented a slide program about the Susquehanna River and its importance to the state and region.

Also Recognized:

The following individuals were also recognized for their volunteer service with District programs. Many of the programs would not be available to the schools and public if it weren't for these volunteers: Tammy A Granger, Genevieve Mehler; Karen and Richard Light, Kathleen K Blouch; James Logan, Jr.; Dian and Emmett Beamesderfer; Joan Keener, Sue Miller; Jeanne and Jerry Boltz, Bob Arnold; Dean and Miriam Patches; Donald Umberger; Letie Schadler, Bill Wunderlich; the Quittapahilla Audubon Society; Spinnaker, Inc; Dairy Queen East; Dutchway Farm Market, Inc; Sycamore Spring Orchard: Hershey Foods, Inc.; and the Boards of the Conservation District and Agricultural Land Preservation.

Awards Presentation, Workshop

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Berks County DHIA will be holding its annual awards presentation in conjunction with a dairy records workshop, Tuesday, Dec. 7, here at the Berks County Agricultural Center.

George Cudoc will kick off the program at 10:45 a.m. with a session on "Ten Things To Get From Your DHIA Reports To Manage Your Herd More Successfully." At noon there will be a lunch buffet, followed by the awards presentation and a slide show of last year's top herds After lunch there will be a presentation of Barn Owl 2000, also conducted by George Cudoc.

Members are encouraged to come for all or part of the day and should bring their DHIA reports with them.

Tickets can be purchased through a Berks County DHIA Supervisor or by contacting Kenneth Sanner at (610) 683-5025.

Case – New Holland Merger Approved

Ed. Note: On November 4, 1999 this joint statement was made by Case and New Holland Equipment companies.

"With clearance from the United States' Department of Justice, we have now reached final agreements with the major regulatory agencies, and we are cleared to proceed with our merger. We have set the anticipated closing date for Friday, November 12, 1999. Upon completion, the $6 billion deal, which consists of $4.6 billion in equity and $1.4 billion in assumed debt, will create a global leader in the agricultural equipment, construction equipment and financial services industries that had combine 1998 revenues of $12 billion.

"In total, the actions included in our agreement with the U.S. Department of Justice represent approximately 3 percent of the combined company's 1998 revenues and are not expected to materially impact the merged company's results. Through supply agreements and other options, we intend to maintain a full-line of products offered by our dealer networks, which is an important element in our multiple brand, multiple distribution business model. We will begin work immediately upon close of the merger to develop differentiated product lines for each brand on a common platform design

"We are moving quickly to complete the merger of Case and New Holland and then rapidly begin the integration process that is expected to create $400 to $500 million in annual cost savings after three to four years."

In accordance with the U.S. Department of Justice, Case and New Holland have agreed to the following:

- Divestiture of Case's ownership interest in Hay & Forage Industries in Hesston, Kansas, a 50/50 joint venture with Agco Corporation that produces hay and forage implements.
- Divestiture of New Holland's versatile four-wheel drive tractor line and Genesis two-wheel drive tractor line, along with the Winnepeg, Canada, plant in which they are made. New Holland's bi-directional tractor, the TV-140, is not included in the agreement and production will be moved to another facility within the merged company.
- For each of these products, Case and New Holland will have the right to negotiate for the purchase of the respective products from the buyer for a specified period of time. The company's dealers will also be able to source replacement parts for these products from either Case or New Holland, respectively, or the buying company.

The merger agreement was announced by the two companies in May. Under the terms of the agreement, Case shareholders, who approved the transaction in August, will receive $55 per share.

Case Corporation is a leading worldwide designer, manufacturer and distributor of agricultural and construction equipment, and offers a broad array of financial products and services. Headquartered in Racine, Wisconsin, Case had 1998 revenues of $6.1 billion and sells its products in 150 countries through a network of approximately 4,900 independent dealers

New Holland is a world leader in the design and manufacture of a full line of agricultural and construction equipment, and offers a rapidly expanding line of financial services in many of its markets. With revenues of $5.7 billion in 1998, the company and its joint venture partners operate in 160 countries through a network of approximately 6,100 dealers and distributors.

The higher standards include:

- Proven engines: up to 36% torque rise
- Exclusive SuperSteer™; 76 degree turning
- Exclusive Traction Management System
- Iso-mounted, fully enclosed cab with standard A/C, heater, tilt/telescope steering, front/rear washers/wipers, best electronic dash, best visibility, and more
- Clutchless power shuttle fingertip control
- State-of-the-art 16x16 Synchro Command™ transmission with 4 speeds under 1 mph

NEW HOLLAND

Building on a good thing

You might recognize the engines, drivelines and axles on the new New Holland TS tractors. They have excellent reputations based on past performance. Thousands of customers have put these components to hard use and benefited from their performance and durability.

So, New Holland wasn't about to change a good thing. They made other improvements to these 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors instead – like increasing the horsepower, improving the comfort of the cab, relocating the fuel tank for added convenience, adding a top road speed of 25 mph, upgrading the electrical system and adding outlets and modernizing the styling.

Better see these exciting 70- to 90-PTO-hp TS tractors for yourself. And find out how good design can become even better.

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — It was just like the 1800s. The men were building a fire in a beehive oven, the women were rolling out dough to make moon pies, and the children were climbing trees.

About 12 women in addition to men and children gathered recently in one of the barns at Nathan and Linda Peachey's farm, Belleville, to prepare moon pies the old-fashioned way — baked in a beehive oven.

Moon pies taste similar to Lancaster County's snitz pies, which are made with dried apples. Instead of being baked in a pie plate, moon pies are formed into individual pies shaped like a half moon and baked on a flat baking sheet.

No one at the gathering seemed to know exactly when and where moon pies originated, but they all agreed that moon pies are a "Big Valley" tradition. Big Valley refers to an area of Mifflin County that encompasses Belleville and Allensville. In addition to many people who continue to make the time-consuming pies in modern ovens, the moon pies are also available at bakeshops and restaurants in the Big Valley area. But outside Mifflin County, few people are familiar with the name.

"We used to make these every Saturday when we held church in our home," said Rachel Kanagy, who grew up in an Amish family. "We made about 200 moon pies before every service," she said.

"About half way through the service, we passed plates of the moon pies to the young children in the service. I still remember being upset when I was considered too old for the mid-service treat."

But after the service, all those in attendance had their chance to indulge in a lunch consisting of pickles, red beets, cheese, moon pies, and fresh apple pie.

When asked why both moon pies and apple pies, which are similar to each other, were served together, Rachel said, "I don't know why we served apple pie with moon pies, but we always did.

"I liked moon pies better than apple pie, but I always ate both."

Typical of the 1800s, these modern women had no recipe to follow when they gathered at the Peachey farm.

"I'm not a person with many written recipes. I have them in my head," said Tori Alwine, the cook in charge.

Although Tori's recipe is in her head, and she dumps ingredients together until it feels like the right consistency, the crust's ingredients are typical pie crust ingredients. The crumbly dough is pressed into a 2-inch diameter dough ball and rolled into an approximate 6-inch circle. The circle is folded over about three-fourths of the way. Slits are cut with a pie wheel so that when baked the fancy cuts appear in the top of the moon pie. The crust is then reopened and about 2 tablespoons of the apple snitz added before again folding the crust into a half moon and edging the crust with a "boy-ready," pie wheel.

Tori Alwine, right, oversees the moon pie production. She grew up making moon pies and continues to do so today, although generally she bakes them in her home oven. "But they taste much better baked in a beehive oven," she said.

Families from Barrville Mennonite Church gathered on the Peachey farm to make Big Valley's traditional moon pies baked in an original beehive oven.

Under the watchful eye of Loren Yoder, Nathan Peachey inserts pies in the beehive oven. The back part of the oven is in the shape of a beehive.

Five-year-old Taylor Kuhns uses a rolling pin just her size to roll out dough.

Pie wheels were designed to be unique to the many different families living in Big Valley. Some of the older models were made with a copper penny that had been flattened and the outside edges notched by metal filing before attached to a wooden handle. Many of the pie wheels had jagged edges to produce a fancy crimpled edging.

The filling is made days in advance. After the apples are peeled and sliced, the apples are dried in food dryers in an oven set with a low temperature overnight. To dry, the apples are placed on racks made with board handles and hardware cloth. Some people use tin mesh trays, and some use commercial food dryers.

Tori said that she sticks the handle of a wooden spoon between the door and the oven to allow the steam to escape.

"It smells so good when the apples are drying — better than any potpourri you could ever buy," Torrie said.

After the apples are dried, they can be kept at room temperature until the filling is prepared. The filling consists of dried apples simmered with water, cinnamon, sugar, and a bit of salt until they

(Turn to Page B4)

Michelle Frankhouse and daughter Chelsea, 8, are accustomed to eating moon pies available in Big Valley, but this was their first introduction to making them the old-fashioned way.

Big Valley's Cooks Bake Moon Pies In Beehive Oven

turn a rich brown color and consistency similar to apple butter.

Some people in the Valley add more spices, but Tori prefers light seasoning so she can taste the rich snitz flavor.

"Depending on the sweetness of the apple, you add more sugar," Tori said. She believes that smokehouse and gingergold varieties make the best apple snitz.

"My aunt always tried to see how many moon pies she could get out of a gallon of snitz. She made a lot of pies but they were so skinny that no one wanted to eat hers," said Rachel, who thinks the fatter the pie, the better it tastes.

According to her, a perfectly baked moon pie should be crispy on all sides but not too darkly browned.

If the oven is too hot, the outside gets burned and the inside isn't cooked. But if the oven isn't hot enough, the crust on the bottom of the moon pies will be soggy and the filling will cook out through the slits made in the top crust.

When the moon pies are filled and placed on metal sheets for baking, the pies are painted with buttermilk and sprinkled with sugar.

"Some people use plain milk, and others beat egg with a little water," Rachel said of the painting process. "It doesn't make them taste any differently. It just browns them nicer."

Tori said that apple snitz was easy to keep in the days before refrigeration and freezers. After the apples were peeled, sliced, and dried, they were dumped into feed bags and hung in the attic until ready to use.

Although many different types of in-season fruit pies were made during the spring, summer, and fall months, the families relied mostly on apple snitz for pie baking during the winter.

While their parents baked, the children climbed a massive tree.

Sylvanus and Ada Peachey are pleased to see their son Nathan, his wife Linda, and their children Tanika, 8; Shanna, 5; and Ruthanna, 4, enjoying the farm that has been in the Peachey family since 1877. The Peacheys own three adjoining farms totaling about 200 acres, rent additional acreage, and milk about 80 cows.

"When I was at home, we made 14 regular pies a week just for our family. When we had company, we made a lot more," Rachel said.

The beehive oven on the Peachey farm is located in what they call the bake house, which is attached to the washhouse and the smokehouse. The name is derived from the shape of the oven's hump in a form like a beehive.

The brick interior is warmed with a wood fire. It takes about three hours to reach the hot temperature required for baking moon pies. At that point, all the coals are pulled out the front where they drop into a brick enclosure.

The oven stays hot enough to bake several batches of moon pies, regular pies, and bread.

Although the Peachey family no longer uses the beehive oven on a regular basis, Nathan has had lots of experience using it lately.

"We had between 200-300 here this summer to make moon pies," Peachey said. That was for a Peachey family reunion. Making moon pies is strongly intertwined with his family's history.

He and Loren Yoder, another Big Valley farmer, had started the fire about three hours before the women arrived.

"The idea is to have the oven as hot as possible so that the crust gets crispy and the filling boiling. If the oven isn't hot enough, the filling will boil before the crust is browned," Peachey said.

Some of the racks for the bake oven were replaced by having a local craftsman fashion the racks to fit into the massive oven. A long-handled wooden scrapper is used to pull out the ashes. Because it is wooden, it needs to be dipped into a bucket of water periodically to cool.

Rachel explained that the proper way to determine whether or not the moon pies are finished baking is to shake the tray.

"If they pull away from the bottom and slide, they are done," she said. "That's the same way with pies. When they are baked properly, you should be able to shake the pie plate, and the crust should pull away from the sides and slide around."

After the moon pies were baked, the racks were placed on wooden benches to cool in the attached wash room.

While some of the women debated whether or not the moon pies were too dark or not dark enough, the men in the group quickly snatched a few to sample.

"Nothing wrong with these," Loren Yoder said. "They're the best ever."

Nathan Peachey shows one of the racks for the bake oven that a local craftsman fashioned to fit into the massive oven.

And just like in the old days, the women followed the moon pie baking by making fresh apple pies.

The whole pies bake better after the oven isn't as hot because they need to cook through and not brown as quickly.

After the pies were baked, Linda mixed up some bread dough to bake in the beehive oven, which had cooled to the proper temperature for bread baking.

"The moon pies, the pies, and the bread all taste better when baked in here," Linda said when comparing the results with modern ovens.

"I don't know why, but it just tastes much better," Rachel said.

After the moon pies were made, the women made bean soup from dried navy beans that had been soaked overnight. Again, no written recipes were used. Instead, butter was browned and added to the soaked beans with salt, butter, and milk. Pieces of homemade bread were dropped in the bowl to eat with the soup. Some of the younger people prefer crackers and some like ham broth for seasoning, but the old-fashioned method did not include any meat or broth," said Wanda Yoder.

The event was sponsored by members of the Barrville Mennonite Church. That evening, they invited their neighbors to come and eat moon pies and bean soup with them.

Limp, black leaves tell the tale.

The zucchini plant looks to be in mourning. Its former umbrella-like, green-laced-with-silver leaves are now little more than papery ash. Burned. Not by fire, but by ice.

Jack Frost has come to call.

Well, actually, he came more to pay his last respects. And left dead and dying stuff scattered in his wake. Stalks of yellow and white cactus-flowered dahlias, covered with dramatic blooms one day, hang droopy flower heads next morning, testimony to Mr. Frost's stalking the neighborhood. Our marigolds metamorphosed to a tired mix of yellow blooms and fading foliage. Only a few very hardy, very defiant, yellow chrysanthemums and bright blue bachelor buttons remain their perky selves.

We have gone over the threshold to where a whole new host of chores demands attention. Quickly.

Those dahlia roots must be dug and dried before the tops fade completely – and I lose track in the garden of where they all are. After experimenting with different storage methods, the winner seems to be storing them in paper bags on the cool, dry floor of the greenhouse.

Tucked into hibernation with dahlias for the winter will be the gladioli harvest. My yellows and pinks have multiplied rapidly each year, growing two or three fat bulbs (actually corms) from each one planted. Reds, purples, whites, those colors I have to buy again each spring, seem far more reluctant to thrive and reproduce with the vigor of yellow and pink ones.

Oh well. The yellow and pink stalks are pretty, too.

Tucked into one backyard bed in early summer were a couple of pudgy, bloomed-out amaryllis bulbs, each with a couple of leathery green pieces of foliage. They seemed to thrive there, until their foliage ultimately fell victim to the chilling weather. Dug, repotted and wintered, with little watering, on a windowsill in our unheated upstairs, they do sometimes rebloom another year.

When the first tips of green begin to poke out the top of the brown bulb next spring, they'll get a promotion to a downstairs, sunny window. With a lot of luck, a blossom stalk may poke up along with the next season's foliage. Reblooming them seems to take a little patience – but mostly a whole lot of luck.

Not long after Jack Frost casts his lethal blow to the greenery, the maples begin yellowing, and opening round of our annual skirmish with falling leaves begins. It's a battle the leaves always win for awhile.

Our big, old maples around the house are the last species on the farm to turn one color and fall. On the way down, they devise ways to tumble into every conceivable – and sometimes highly unlikely – nook and cranny.

Bed linens hung out to dry return to the house with maple leaf bits hanging to the fabric. Floormats of the car, despite its being kept in the garage with the door closed, will sport crispy leaf pieces for the next several months. Every plant still outside gets maple leaf intruders elbowing in between the originals.

We sweep them from the porch; they blow right back. Around the woodpile, over the porch pumpkins, into buckets, planters and pet food and water dishes they cascade, pile up and hunker down for the winter. They fill buckets, bury planters, gather conspiratorily into the corners, sneak in through the door every time it opens, provide great piles of jumping-into material and create soft, insulated napping spots for the dog and a few super-hardy wooly bear caterpillars.

This yearly inundation is the downside of the free, natural cooling these thick trees provide us through the summer's stretches of heat. And, while I grumble every fall about all the leaves, these trees are like beloved children – extra work, sometimes messy, but we wouldn't give them up

By spring, the free-spirited leaves will have been swept around, chopped over, raked up, settled into layers, greatly diminished by the rain, ice and snows, and ultimately hauled to the fields for recycling into organic soil enrichers.

It might be interesting to pile some of that maple leaf insulation around the blooms and several inch-long zucchini which turned up under that top layer of frost-zapped squash foliage. Just to see how many more weeks they'll stay alive.

D'ya suppose zucchini are Y2K compliant?

Milk The Hot Drink Craze For All It's Worth

Break out of your normal grind and start the day with steamy caffe latte. Or, how about a cup of hot chocolate with a dash of cinnamon, or vanilla milk?

Hot milk drinks are fun, tasty, and simple enough for everyone to make. You can get your calcium requirements easily by sipping these specialty drinks.

If you're concerned about fat and calories, use fat free or lowfat milk varieties. They foam beautifully and can keep your drinks lean while delivering the same amount of calcium as whole milk.

"Hot milk drinks are an interesting way to get the taste and nutritional benefits of milk during the fall and winter," said Deanna Rose, registered dietitian for ADA/DC. Check out the featured recipe on this page to find out how to receive coasters and additional recipes.

Hot milk drinks are so popular that Borders Books and Music stores have developed specialty beverages. The recipes and the beverages are available this month at their stores, but you can create them at home also.

Here are plenty of ideas to milk the hot drink craze for all it's worth.

RED HOTS MILK

¼ cup water
¼ cup cinnamon red hots candy
¼ cup honey
1 tablespoon whole cloves
4 cups milk
Mini marshmallows

Combine water, red hots, honey, and cloves into a 2-quart saucepan; bring to a boil and cook 5 minutes. Strain cloves out of syrup and gradually add milk and heat. Pour into cups and top with mini marshmallows.

Yields: 6 servings.

BJL
Lebanon

HOT VANILLA MILK

2 cups milk
2 teaspoons honey
4 drops vanilla extract
Cinnamon

In a saucepan, heat milk until very hot but not boiling. Separate milk into two cups, add 1 teaspoon honey and 2 drops vanilla to each cup. Stir until mixed and top with pinch of cinnamon.

Yields 2 servings.

BJL
Lebanon

SPECIAL HOT CHOCOLATE
16 servings

6-ounces semi-sweet chocolate morsels
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup whipping cream
Hot milk

Combine chocolate morsels, sugar, and water in a small saucepan. Heat over medium heat, stirring frequently, until chocolate is melted. Cool to lukewarm; stir in vanilla. Whip cream until stiff peaks form. Gradually whip in cooled chocolate mixture. Store in covered container in refrigerator. (Chocolate mixture keeps well in refrigerator up to one week).

HOT COCOA

½ cup sugar
¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons cocoa
Dash salt
Dash cinnamon
4 cups milk

Add milk slowly and heat until almost boiling.

Note: If cocoa flavor is too strong, add up to 2 cups more milk.

Judy VanderWal
Blooomsburg, NJ

Use whole, lowfat, or nonfat milk in preparing hot milk drinks. Because these beverages have other flavors added, using nonfat milk will cut fat and calories without cutting flavors and still give you all the nutrients of whole milk.

COFFEE CHAI

4 cups milk
1 tablespoon instant or freeze-dried coffee
¼ cup brown sugar
3 cinnamon sticks
6 cardamom pods (available in spice section of most supermarkets)
⅛ teaspoon grated nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon allspice
4 cinnamon sticks, optional

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Simmer, stirring to dissolve sugar and instant coffee for five minutes over low heat. Don't let the mixture boil. Let the mixture steep off the heat for 20-30 minutes. Pour through a clean sieve or strainer. Serve either hot or cold.

Coffee Chai is also delicious iced. Use optional cinnamon sticks as stirrers. Serves 4.

BERRY MOCHA AU LAIT

¾ cup cold milk
1 teaspoon unsweetened cocoa powder
1 tablespoon raspberry or strawberry syrup
¾ cup hot coffee
Whipped cream, for topping

Pour milk into deep, microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on high for 1-2 minutes, until scalded but not boiling. While milk is steaming, whisk the cocoa and syrup together in a large mug. Pour hot coffee into the mug and whisk. If desired, froth hot steaming milk with whisk or hand mixer. Pour milk over the coffee. Top with whipped cream and serve.

Serves 1.

HAZELNUT CAFE AU LAIT

3 cups milk
2 cups regular-strength brewed coffee
2 tablespoons bottle chocolate-hazelnut spread
Ground cinnamon optional.

Heat milk and hazelnut spread in microwave oven in a small saucepan, stirring frequently, until mixture starts to steam; do not boil. Blend in coffee and divide among three serving cups, dusting with optional cinnamon. Serves 3.

ADC

HOT COCOA

½ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup baking cocoa
4 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir together sugar and cocoa in medium saucepan. Gradually stir in ⅓ cup milk to make a smooth paste; stir in remaining milk. Warm over medium heat; stirring constantly, until hot but not boiling. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Serve warm topped with whipped cream. For an extra treat, stir with a peppermint or cinnamon stick.

Caramel Cocoa Hot Shots are made by adding cocoa powder and caramel syrup to a mug of steaming milk.

Featured Recipe

The American Dairy Association is offering free "Got Milk? Get Steamed!" coasters featuring Borders Cafe original "Hot Milk Drink" recipes.

These drink coasters show how to make Borders' Caramel Cocoa Hot Show and Berry Mocha Au-Lait. The coasters also offer simple tips for making hot milk drinks.

Hot milk drinks, a tasty twist on old favorites like hot chocolate and milkshakes, are an easy way for parents to get kids to drink their milk, especially during cold winter months.

More than half of the children in the United States are not getting enough calcium in their diets, according to USDA. Children ages 4 to 8 need 800 mg of this important nutrient every day. One 12-ounce hot milk drink contains more than 300 mg of calcium.

For the coasters and a recipe brochure featuring more hot milk drinks, call ADA's toll-free number at 1-888-799-6455.

In the meantime, enjoy these hot milk drinks with your family.

CARAMEL COCOA HOT SHOT

1¼ cups cold milk
1 tablespoon caramel syrup
1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa powder

Pour milk into a deep, microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on high for 1-2 minutes until scalded, but not boiling. Stir in the caramel syrup and cocoa powder. Pour into a large mug and serve. Serves 1.

FLAVORED MILK STEAMER

1¼ cups cold milk
1 tablespoon chocolate, caramel, or strawberry syrup

In a deep, microwave-safe bowl, mix the milk and syrup together. Microwave on high for 1-2 minutes, until scalded but not boiling. To froth, whisk the drink with hand-mixer (or use milk frother). Serve immediately.

Hot Milk Drinks At Home
Simple Tips to Take the Taste
From Your Favorite Café to Your Kitchen

Susann Hadler, author of A Cozy Book of Coffees & Cocoas (Prima Publishing, 1996), offers these tips for recreating the look and taste of a hot milk drink at home:

To Prepare Hot Milk Drinks:

- Always use very clean utensils and bowls.
- When heating milk, do not allow it to boil. Remove from heat when small bubbles begin to form around the edges.
- Hot milk drinks are best when ingredients are well blended. Use a blender or whisk to ensure that all ingredients mix well.
- To keep drinks warm longer, pre-heat the mugs before adding the beverage.
- If a microwave is not available, use a saucepan and prepare on top of the stove. Keep the heat at medium-low.

To froth milk:

- For simplicity, use a microwave oven. Pour cold milk into a deep bowl; microwave it on high for about 2 minutes. Milk should be scalded but not boiling. With a hand mixer, blend milk rapidly until airy and frothed.
- If you have an espresso machine use it to froth milk, following manufacturer's directions.
- Frothed milk should be smooth and thick, with small bubbles.
- Overheating milk will destroy froth. The froth will be present at the bottom of the pitcher; not all of the milk will be transformed to froth
- Low fat or nonfat milk will froth more easily than whole milk, because it contains less fat.
- When poured on top of a hot beverage, the froth keeps the drink warm and provides a surface on which to shake powdered cocoa, ground cinnamon or other flavorings.
- Steamed milk should contain small bubbles throughout the liquid, and the foam on top should have a sweet, light taste.

To Create Hot Milk Drinks:

- Hot milk drinks taste good with any type of milk – 2%, skim or whole. To reduce fat and calories, use skim milk. Very young children (until age 2) should always receive whole milk.
- Flavored syrups add color, sweetness and a distinct flavor to the drink. Try chocolate, maple, strawberry, caramel, butterscotch, orange or any other favorite commercial syrup.
- To add thickness and taste to a hot milk drink, stir in cocoa powder. Dutch process cocoa is particularly good, as it has a more delicate flavor.
- Use equal amounts of hot milk and regular or decaffeinated coffee for rich Café Au Laits.
- For a finishing touch, top hot milk drinks with whipped cream, chocolate or other candy sprinkles, powdered white chocolate, mint sprigs, cinnamon sticks or powder, or white or brown sugar.
- When adding chocolate to hot milk drinks, use unsweetened or semisweet powder or syrup. Do not substitute chocolate chips, as they will not dissolve as well.

Hot Drink Craze

STOVETOP LATTE

3 cups milk
2 cups regular-strength brewed coffee
Cocoa powder or ground cinnamon, optional

Heat milk in a microwave oven or in a saucepan over the stove just until it starts to steam and a few bubbles appear; don't let it boil. Divide the coffee and milk equally among three mugs or for a special treat use bowls. (Try cereal bowls. Leave at least a half-inch room at the top; so you won't burn your hands when you pick up the bowl, hold it around the rim). Sweeten to taste and dust with optional cocoa powder or cinnamon. Serves 3.

This is the drink French families call cafe au lait. Every morning they dunk fresh buttered baguettes into steaming fragrant bowlfuls. Don't be shy about dipping toast or cookies.

ADC

AT-HOME CAPPUCCINO

2 cups milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup double-strength freshly brewed coffee
Cocoa powder or grated chocolate (optional)

Heat milk in miocrowave oven or in a small saucepan over the stove until it starts to steam and a few bubbles appear; don't let it boil. For foamed milk, place one cup hot milk in blender container with sugar. Cover with a vented lid. Switch the blender on and off quickly to avoid splashing overflows, and then continue blending. Blend until frothy, about 30 seconds. Combine warm milk and coffee and divide among two serving cups. Spread foamed milk over each cup. Dust with cocoa powder or chocolate, if desired. Serves 2.

Italians drink this as a mid-morning coffee break. you can linger over a foam-topped, cocoa-dusted cup instead of a high-fat, high-calorie dessert.

Self-Guided Tour

SERGEANTSVILLE, N.J. — Covered Bridge Artisans will hold an Open Studios Tour on Nov. 26-28.

Five of the six studios on the tour are located on restored New Jersey farms within minutes of the famous covered bridge in Sergeantsville, the sixth is on Swan Street in Lambertville.

No charge is made for the self-guided tours. A map of the tour is available at the General Store in Sergeantsville or by calling (609) 397-1535.

QUESTION — A reader wants to know where to buy Swiss cheese with a touch of ham and blue cheese by the roll or pound. She can find these items in 4-ounce packages, but they are very expensive. She would also like to know where to buy shrimp chips in a big box.

QUESTION — Brenda Houser, Middletown, would like a recipe to make cookies that taste like the ones served at Shady Maple Smorgasboard. The varieties that she likes are Chocolate Chip Truffle, which has a chocolate batter with chocolate chips in it and a soft chocolate center, and Peanut Butter Truffle, which has a peanut butter batter with chopped nuts and a soft peanut butter filling.

ANSWER — Dolores Smith, Nescopeck, wanted a recipe for Pennsylvania Dutch peach bread, a yeast bread with a crumb topping. Thanks to M. Leaman, Newville, for sending a recipe that she altered to fit a 15x11-inch cookie sheet.

Fruit Plautz

Dough:
- ½ cup milk
- 3 tablespoons butter
- ¼ cup sugar

Heat until very warm. Cool to lukewarm. Mix together the following and let stand until bubbly:
- 1 tablespoon dry yeast
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ¼ cup lukewarm water

Combine both mixtures with the following:
- 1 egg
- 3 cups flour

Beat hard with a spoon or beater and add more flour if needed to make a stiff dough. Knead on a floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl. Let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Pat out on a greased cookie sheet. Let rise about 30 minutes.

Slice peaches, about 3 cups, and spread over dough in overlapping rows. (Canned peaches work better than fresh because the topping stays crisper). Allow to rise until double. Cover with streusel topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Streusel Topping:
- ¾ cup sugar
- ¾ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ cup butter

Cut together as for pie dough.

The original recipe also included a cream topping, which M. Leaman hasn't tried. Here it is if anyone would like to include it.

Cream Topping:

Mix together 1 egg and ¾ cup whipping cream. Sprinkle 1 cup sugar over fruit (1 teaspoon cinnamon, optional). Drizzle egg mixture over fruit. Bake.

Apples, rhubarb, pears or cherries may be substituted for the peaches.

Cherry Plautz:

Mix ⅔ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons corn starch in saucepan. Add 3 cups fresh or frozen cherries and ½ cup water. Bring to a boil and boil one minute. Cool. Spread over dough. Proceed as above.

ANSWER — Betty Gilroy, Nanjemsy, Md., wanted a recipe to make Gingerbread in a Jar. Thanks to Pat Sweetman, proprietor for Stone Haus Herbs, Stewartstown, for sending a recipe.

Canned Pumpkin Cake
- ⅔ cup shortening
- 2⅔ cups sugar
- 4 eggs
- 16-ounces pumpkin puree
- ⅓ cup water
- 3⅓ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- ⅔ cups chopped nuts (optional)
- 8 pint sized, wide-mouth canning jars

Cream shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs, pumpkin, and water. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices and beat into pumpkin mixture. Add chopped nuts if desired.

Wash 8 pint-sized jars and dry thoroughly. Grease only bottom half of each jar with shortening. Fill each jar half way up with prepared batter. Bake open jars approximately 55-60 minutes at 325 degrees. (Never bake canning jars above 325 degrees or you run the risk of the jar cracking).

Just before jars are done baking, prepare canning lids according to manufactures' instructions. When cakes are done, quickly remove one hot jar at a time and clean sealing edge. Immediately apply a prepared, two-piece canning lid, tighten firmly but not overly. The lid will forma a vacuum seal as the jar cools.

Check seals after jars have cooled. Unsealed jars should be stored in the refrigerator and eaten within two weeks. Sealed jars may be stored with other canned foods or placed in a freezer. The cake is safe to eat as long as the jar remains vacuum sealed and free from mold growth. However, for best flavor, try to consume all sealed cakes within six months.

ANSWER — T. Straub, Millville, wanted recipes to make dry soup mixes. Thanks to Lou Anne Leid, Ephrata, for this recipe to use instead of cream soups in casserole recipes.

Dry Soup Mix
- 2 cups non-fat dry milk powder
- ¾ cups corn starch
- ¼ cup instant reduced-sodium chickn or beef bouillon
- ½ teaspoon dried, crushed thyme
- ½ teaspoon dried, crushed basil
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper

Combine all ingredients using blender or food processor. Store in airtight container.

To prepare as substitute for one can condensed cream soup, stir together ⅓ cup dry mix and 1¼ cups water in saucepan. Cook and stir until thickened.

Telephone Slamming, Cramming On Rise

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Complaints from consumers regarding "slamming" (the unauthorized switching of your telephone service to another carrier) and "cramming" (addition of unauthorized charges to your telephone bill) have increased 91% in the last two years according to a study by the U.S. General Accounting Office. Disputing the charges can often take months without any guarantee of a positive result. Attorney General Mike Fisher's Bureau of Consumer Protection says that Pennsylvania consumers can limit incidences of "slamming" and "cramming" by following these suggestions:

- If you are contacted via a telemarketing call or if you initiate the call about changing your long distance service, do not commit to the plan until you have received written information concerning the new service. Upon receipt of the information, read it carefully to determine exactly the new charges. If any aspect of the information is unclear to you, call the company and ask that a clarified explanation be sent to you.
- When you receive your telephone bill, check it carefully for any unauthorized third party charges. Although you may have declined any changes to your long distance service, it is not uncommon to be illegally switched or "slammed." Therefore, consumers should routinely verify their provider.
- Report any "slamming" or "cramming" violations to the Bureau of Consumer Protection at its Toll-free number: 1-800-441-2555. A complaint form will be sent to you in order to identify companies engaging in this type of activity as well as remedying the errors.

The Federal Trade Commission has proposed new rules for "cramming" that include obtaining a consumer's consent before adding any third party charges to a bill. It would also allow consumers to dispute unauthorized charges. New Federal Communications Commission rules require telephone companies to reorganize phone bills to flag new charges and service providers, give clear descriptions of all charges and information about how to contest them.

Consumers with questions or complaints, may contact the Bureau of Consumer Protection's Toll-Free Hotline at 1-800-441-2555 or log onto the Attorney General's website at www.attorneygeneral.gov

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Donna Girardin, Campbell Hall, N.Y., wanted a recipe for "half-sour pickles," which she said are often sold at flea markets and fairs. Thanks to a reader for sending this recipe.

Make Today — Eat Tomarrow Half-Sour Cucumbers

In a one gallon jar, combine:
5-6 cups cold water
¾ cup white vinegar
¼ cup salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1½ teaspoons pickling spice
Garlic and dill to taste

Add 12 small cucumbers, well washed, and let them marinate at room temperature for 24 to 48 hours. Store pickles in refrigerator.

ANSWER — Dottie Hastings, Manheim, wanted a canning recipe for candied dill pickes, not sweet dill pickles. Thanks to M. Martin, Ephrata, for sending a recipe.

Amish Garlic Sweet Dill Pickles

Slice medium-sized pickles ¼ -inch thick into jars. Place 1 garlic bud and 1 or 2 sprigs fresh green dill into each quart.

Combine in saucepan and heat to boiling:
3 cups sugar
1 cup vinegar
3 cups water
2 tablespoons salt

Pour over cucumbers in jars leaving 1-inch head space. Tighten lids. Process in boiling water bath for 8-10 minutes. Ready to eat after two weeks.

ANSWER — Esther Lapp, Millersburg, wanted good recipes for canning and freezing. Here's one from M. Martin, Ephrata.

Easy Frozen Corn

Shuck, silk, and wash corn. Chill raw corn thoroughly in ice water. Drain and cut kernels off cobs. Mix together the following:
15 cups corn
¾ cup sugar
1¼ tablespoons salt
1 quart ice water
Put into containers and freeze.

Here is a soup recipe to can, which was sent in by a reader.

Homemade Chicken Soup

In each quart jar, in the following order, place:
½ cup thin egg noodles, uncooked
⅓ cup chopped celery
⅓ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped carrots
1 clove garlic, crushed
¼ cup cooked deboned chicken
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3½ cups strained hot chicken broth

Leave 1-inch headspace. Clean jar rims and screw on clean lids. Process 7 quart jars at 11 pounds pressure for 45 minutes.

ANSWER — Maryann Gimble, Warrenton, Va., wanted instructions and a list of ingredients used to make gifts such as the quart jars filled with dry cookie ingredients. She also wants dry ingredients for soups. Here are some recipes from our readers. Look for more in an upcoming feature on "Gifts From the Kitchen."

Thanks to Rachel Glick, New Holland, for this one.

Special Bean Soup

Mix together one pound each:
Northern beans
Pinto beans
Large lima beans
Black-eyed peas
Garbanzo beans
Small white beans
Baby lima beans
Split green peas
Pearl barley
Kidney beans
White kidney beans
Cranberry beans
Pink beans
Small red beans
Black beans
Yellow split peas
Lentils
Navy beans

Pack 2 cups of mixture into a bag or jar to give as a gift.

Include the following directions for making soup: Combine 2 cups assorted dried beans in a pot with 2 quarts water and 2 tablespoons salt; soak overnight. Next day, drain. Add 2 quarts fresh water, 1 or 2 ham hocks. Simmer until soft. Remove meat. Add 21½ -ounce can tomatoes, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 large chopped onion, 1 teapsoon chili powder, 1 clove garlic, and black pepper. Simmer until hot.

Here is another recipe from Naomi Blank, Kinzers.

Sand Art Bars

Put contents into jar in this order:
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons flour
½ teapsoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
⅓ cup cocoa
⅔ cup granulated sugar
⅔ cup brown sugar
½ cup nuts or chocolate chips
½ cup candy of your choice

Print these directions on attached card:
Empty contents of jar in bowl. Add:
3 whole eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅔ cup oil

Mix well. Pour into greased baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 32-37 minutes in 7x11-inch pan or 27-32 minutes in 9x9-inch pan. When baked, let cool. Cut into 2-inch squares.

Here is one from Joyce N. Martin of Smoker & Co. Also check out the "Home On The Range" page on B6.

Hot Cocoa Mix

1 box dry milk to make 8 quarts
2 pounds Nestle Quik
6-8 ounces coffee creamer
1 cup confectioners' sugar

Mix together all ingredients and store in tight container. Stir ⅔ cup mix into one cup hot water.

For a gift, package mix in a nice container or mug with a note.

Barnyard Birthday Bash Held For Elsie The Cow

KANSAS CITY, Mo — "I grew up with Elsie!"

"She's beautiful!"

"I still remember those dairy commercials with Elsie and her family."

Such were the comments from hundreds of New Yorkers watching from the sidelines as Elsie the Cow paraded in front of the bright red barn and silo temporarily erected at Bryant Park in the heart of New York City on Oct. 26. Echoes of the New York audience could be heard across the nation as America's most beloved bovine beauty returned home to celebrate her 60th birthday and her lifetime achievements as a trusted advertising icon.

"The people of New York City haven't forgotten Elsie and it's obvious they love her and what she stands for," said Dairy Farmers of America's Dick Ballard, president of Borden Cheese, American Dairy Brands.

"She was first introduced live at the 1939 World's Fair in New York," recalled Ballard. "Today Elsie remains one of the most enduring and famous product icons of all time. Recognized by 9 out of 10 people, she was named recently by Advertising Age as one of the top 10 icons of the 20th century.

"Elsie has been synonymous with quality dairy products that families can trust, to deliver wholesome nutrition, great taste and freshness. That's why she's a key element in our new marketing program for Borden Cheese."

During the past six decades, Elsie rose from barnyard obscurity to stardom as the wholesome, motherly, fictional cow that spread the word in Borden advertisements about the importance of freshness and quality in dairy products. Even today, her daisy chain necklace symbolizes dairy freshness to moms across the country.

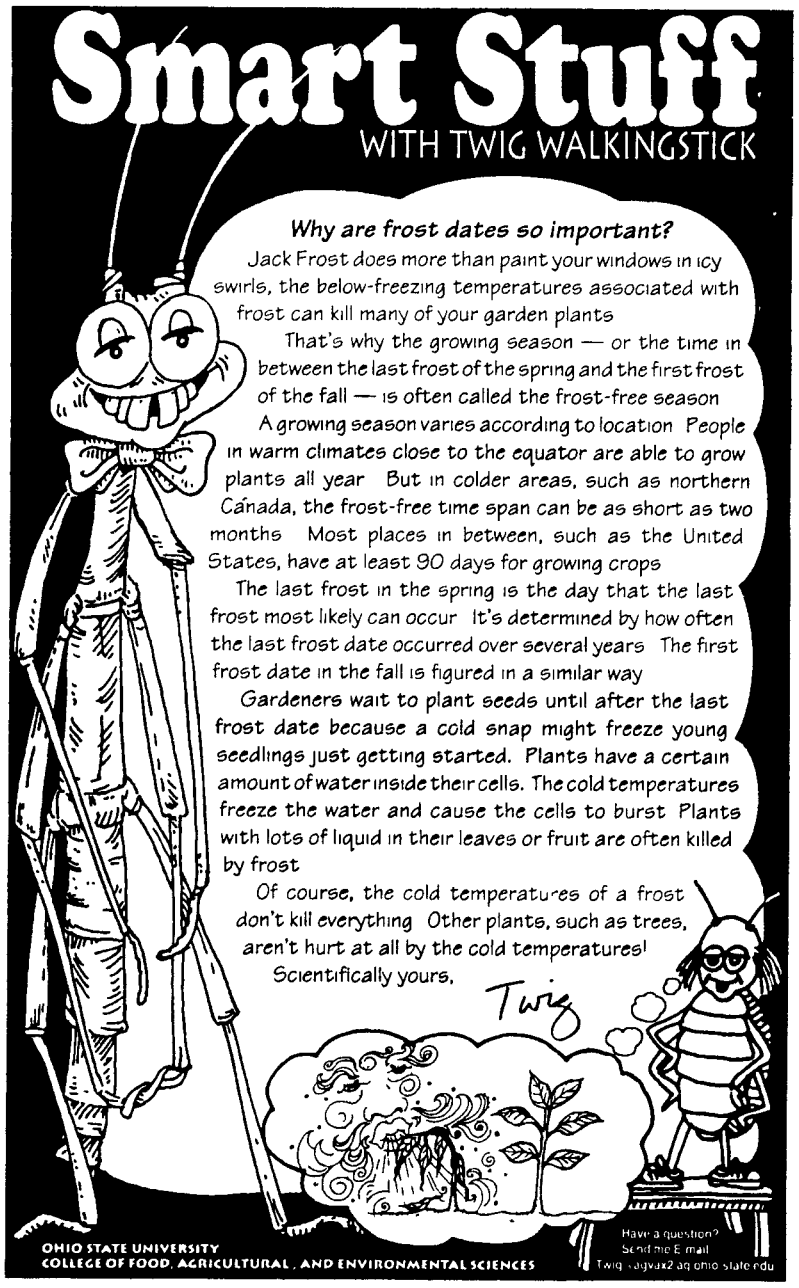
To celebrate her 60th birthday, Elsie traveled to Manhattan where the Borden Cheese marketing team staged the birthday celebration, complete with a barn, hay bales, and lots of daisies. A special Elsie exhibit featuring memorabilia from the 1939 World's Fair, nostalgic advertisements and other items were on display to chronicle her rise to celebrity. Since her first live appearance at the New York World's Fair, Elsie has logged thousands of miles in her travels across America, as a "spokes cow" for quality dairy products, visiting hundreds of communities to reach millions of cheese lovers. Elsie has even been presented with keys to more than 200 cities.

Children were also part of Elsie's "moo-ving" birthday celebration. A class of elementary students from New York's Storefront school sang happy birthday and met the famous cow. A daisy-covered birthday cake served to Elsie featured a mix of molasses and barley. Jim Cavanaugh, one of the original handlers who was involved in the selection of the first Elsie the Cow back in 1939 and followed her activities over the years — shared Elsie memories with the media.

For the past 60 years, Borden has been home to Elsie. Through a 1997 licensing agreement with Borden and BDH Two, Inc., Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) acquired the rights to use the Borden and Elsie trademarks. Today's Elsie promotes cheese products — the Borden brand — for American Dairy Brands, a division of DFA.

Elsie also signifies the partnership between dairy farmers and processors, the original reason for her character's creation, explained Ballard. "Recently, DFA's Borden cheese brand, introduced a new advertising campaign using a new tagline, 'Borden Brings the Dairy Home,'" he said. "The ads pay homage to the DFA members and their cows, who work hard to bring the freshest tasting cheese to America's tables."

Dick Ballard, Dairy Farmers of America, parades Elsie in front of the barn erected in Bryant Park as part of Elsie's birthday celebration.



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Why are frost dates so important?
Jack Frost does more than paint your windows in icy swirls, the below-freezing temperatures associated with frost can kill many of your garden plants
That's why the growing season — or the time in between the last frost of the spring and the first frost of the fall — is often called the frost-free season
A growing season varies according to location People in warm climates close to the equator are able to grow plants all year But in colder areas, such as northern Canada, the frost-free time span can be as short as two months Most places in between, such as the United States, have at least 90 days for growing crops
The last frost in the spring is the day that the last frost most likely can occur It's determined by how often the last frost date occurred over several years The first frost date in the fall is figured in a similar way
Gardeners wait to plant seeds until after the last frost date because a cold snap might freeze young seedlings just getting started. Plants have a certain amount of water inside their cells. The cold temperatures freeze the water and cause the cells to burst Plants with lots of liquid in their leaves or fruit are often killed by frost
Of course, the cold temperatures of a frost don't kill everything Other plants, such as trees, aren't hurt at all by the cold temperatures!

So Many Questions About Deer Hunting

Even though the archery deer season has started, the very popular rifle season is fast approaching and once again I am left with a number of questions concerning this sport.

It continues to amaze me that men seem to change so much during hunting season. Now, I don't have anything against hunting, I just want to understand what makes male deer hunters go through such a metamorphosis

For example, explain to me how a man who can't possibly walk, stand, or sit at a mall for more than 30 minutes, can walk, stand, or sit in a tree for hours! Especially sitting on two or three small boards I am told one must be very quiet and still as not to disturb the deer who saunter through the woods. Too bad, men can't do the same when assisting a female in the grocery store.

My next question is about deodorants. Most men want to smell nice. They purchase aftershave, deodorants, cologne and other items to make them smell pleasant Most won't admit it, but they spend just as much as women do in this department. Explain to me why anyone would put a dab or even a whole three-ounces of liquid that smells like deer in heat anywhere near their persons

Every year there seems to be a hunter who is badly injured because a buck got him confused with a doe!

"Deer perfume" takes weeks to remove from clothing, if ever Some hunter widows suggested that these clothes be left outside throughout the season or even burned!

Another question is that business of early rising – like 3:00 a.m.

I can understand that old saying, "The early bird catches the worm," but these are the same men that have to be pried out of bed with dynamite on Sunday mornings What is it about the thought of deer that get hunters up so early?

And, explain to me why, during the rest of the year, men insist on having a hot meal every evening when they come home. But, when he goes off to deer camp is willing to eat cold spaghetti out of a frying pan. Oh yes, this is the same man who likes his lunches packed with freshness in mind using the latest plastic wrap technology However, on hunting day has a coronary if you pack a sandwich in anything that makes the slightest noise.

One last thing I need explained to me, why do hunters go out in the middle of the night looking for deer? Deer are frequently on the move looking for food, they travel within a certain geographic area, and are considered intelligent animals There is now way a deer spotted in farmer Jones' field at 10 00 p m is going to be anywhere near there at daylight the next day Perhaps, for some this night spotting game is the only time they get to actually see deer

Schadler Is Featured Speaker At Lebanon Extension's Meeting

Alletta Schadler reflects on a lifetime career serving Lebanon countians, first as an extension home economist and later as extension director.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Applause isn't always sincere, but there was no doubt that the standing ovation for Alletta Schadler at Lebanon County Extension's annual meeting was wrapped with respect, gratitude, and yes, even some awe.

After 25 years as the county's revered home economist and extension director, Schadler is retiring. She wrapped up the annual meeting at the Schaefferstown Fire Hall, Nov. 4, by recalling not only her experiences, but how family life has changed during the past decades.

When Schadler began her career, she was expected to wear hats and gloves. As fashions changed, Schadler daringly wore pants with a designer tag, which an older lady, unaware of the fashion statement, offered to cut off.

Microwave ovens, remote television controls, cordless phones, cell phones, and answering machines were unheard of when Schadler began her carreer. She recalled that in 1956, she was told to say that someday everyone would have a microwave. That seemed prohibitive to her, because the price tag was $1,200. Today the microwave is considered an essential appliance in most households.

When Schadler began her career, she was pleased with her starting salary of $275 monthly. While salaries and costs have risen considerably, Schadler noted that chicken is about the same price now as in the 1960s.

In 1957, the extension mailing list numbered 180. Now 2,000-3,000 addresses are on the county mailings.

Some of the subjects the extension focused on in the past are now outdated, such as seminars on foundation garments, laundry soap testing, and chair caning.

"We live in exciting times with different perspectives. It's unfortunate that the professional home economist has almost disappeared," Schadler said.

She predicts that society will rediscover the need for home economists as consumer education remains a priority for the majority who rely more on puchasing home meal replacements instead of preparing their own meals. In addi-

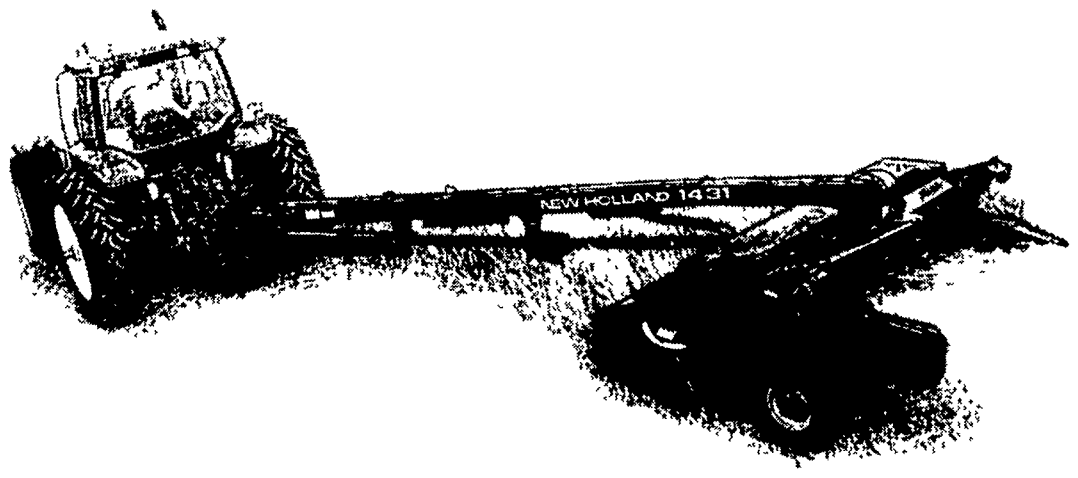
Cut faster, condition better

For greater maneuverability and higher efficiency, nothing beats the Model 1431 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner from New Holland. It features a 13' cutting width, and operates at high ground speeds in wet, heavy grass without plugging. Fire anthills and gopher mounds won't stop the new Model 1431 either.

Outstanding features include:

- A center pivot-tongue design
- Independent modular cutterbar with ten small-diameter cutting discs
- 102" wide conditioning rolls
- A full range of vertical and lateral flotation
- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- A cutterbar driven from both ends

For maximum harvesting efficiency, check out the Model 1431 Discbine. It's the best in the field.



York Farm Women Help Those In Need

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Members of the York County Society of Farm Women touch the lives of many people through their generous donations of food and cash and their recent convention was no exception.

On Nov. 4 they met for their 60th convention at Wisehaven Hall and honored their own members, elected officers, and made more than $6,000 in donations to the community.

The group heard Amy Nehlsen, daughter of Morgan and Joyce Ilgenfritz of York and a missionary to Africa, who provides health education to citizens of that country. Nehlsen said the group should use the fall season as a time to reflect and find hope in the fact "that spring will come again."

Nehlsen spoke to the group in place of her mother who was scheduled to speak, but was suffering from laryngitis.

Nehlsen said that just as the farmer knows, "The seed dies in the earth, but still contains the energy of life, God speaks to us in nature.

"We must put the seed down and be patient, but then I'm talking to a room full of women who know all about patience. In the seed principle there is always hope," she concluded.

After lunch, the group convened to hear Vanessa Jordan, Miss York County, tell about her reign and her interest in and promotion of health and fitness through her studies and her career.

The society presented a $1,000 check to Our Daily Bread Soup Kitchen of York, and another $1,000 check to the 4-H programs of York County. Numerous other area agencies were also the beneficiaries of the group's generosity.

Food was collected from the 362-member group, which was donated to three area agencies — Bell Socialization Services of York, Access York, a York-based home for battered women and children, and the Mason-Dixon Food Pantry.

Amy Nehlsen of York, a missionary to Africa, and her mother Joyce Ilgenfritz take a moment following a talk given by Nehlsen during the convention. Ilgenfritz, who was scheduled to speak, deferred to her daughter because of a case of laryngitis. She did, however, sign copies of her book "I Was a Stranger."

At a bazaar table, the group earned $442.70 by selling craft items, many of them made by the members. This money will also benefit those in need.

Naomi Bupp reported that from sales of the state Farm Society cookbook, $9,000 ws provided this year for student scholarships throughout the Commonwealth.

She said eight $1,000 scholarships and two $500 scholarships were given to deserving students.

The York County Society of Farm Women also has a cookbook which can be purchased for $6.50, plus $1.25 for shipping and handling, by contacting Mrs. E. Lamar Lehman, RD 2, Box 170, Seven Valleys, PA 17360.

Arlene Miller was installed as the new president of the group by state Farm Society President Lois Hughes. Arlene replaces Lois Manifold who had served in the post for the past two years.

Members receiving 90-year awards were Pauline Thomas and Helen Rexroth, and 80-year awards were given to Elsie Stermer, Pearl Laughman, Fairy Martin, Charlotte Dubs, Miriam Young, and Eloise Leicht.

Members also held a Basket Bingo on Sunday as a fund-raiser for Peggy Whorl Spiese of Columbia, Lancaster County. Peggy is a York County native who suffered as a 13-year-old child from a rare liver disease, autoimmune hepatitis, and who is now in need of a liver transplant and awaiting a donor.

In the foreground, Lois Hughes, president of the state Farm Women's Society, and Arlene Miller, new president of York County's society, and Lois Manifold, outgoing York president, take care of business.

Her medical insurance is expected to cover most of her surgery costs when a liver becomes available, but not the ongoing medications her body will need to accept the new liver — about $22,000 each year.

Schadler Is Featured Speaker

tion, pharmeceutical foods and food safety rules have changed.

Schadler's retirement date is Dec. 1. Winifred McGee, who has been a multicounty agent for economic and community development, has assumed leadership as the director of the Lebanon County Extension.

"These seem like big shoes to fill from where I stand," McGee said of filling Schadler's position. McGee will assume the administrative duties as director, but another person will be hired to do the duties associated with family living agent.

Elected to serve as board members were Hershey Bare, Greg Forry, Jean Henry, Marion Maulfair, and John Strack.

In other business, 4-H volunteers were recognized by Martha Gregory, 4-H coordinator. About 160 volunteers assist 30 different clubs.

Those receiving special recognition included Joan Rittle, a 30-year volunteer; Darlene Brandt, 20 years; Sue Werner, 15 years; Richard Krall, 10 years; and Sheryl Horst and Bill Pierce, five years.

Master gardener volunteers were also recognized.

After years of reducing staff to accomodate a tight budget, Dr. Michele Rodgers, capitol region director, announced that an additional $2 million dollars have been added to the state budget to hire more staff.

"We hope to be back where we were in the 1980s," Rodgers said of extension employees.

A retirement celebration is scheduled for Alletta Schadler at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center, Sunday, Dec. 12, from 2 p.m-5 p.m. Reservations of $10 per person are required. For more information, contact the Lebanon County Extension office at (717) 270-4391.

Beware Flea Collar Dangers

The Center for Environmental Health Sciences warns that pet flea collars expose humans, especially children, to possibly unsafe levels of pesticides.

New, fresh flea collars transfer insecticide residue to people in fairly high amounts.

As a precaution, do not allow children to hug or sleep with the dog while the flea collar is fresh. Everyone should was their hands after petting animals.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Introducing
The Chi Machine
The Sun Harmony Aerobic Exerciser
It does the work - You get the aerobic benefits.

"In only three weeks of using the Chi Machine, I lost 15 pounds effortlessly and hospital lab tests showed that my blood cholesterol level dropped from 225 to 160 mg'

How do I use my Chi Machine?
* Place the machine on a rug Lie on your back and put your ankles in the grooves of the footrest on top of the machine
* Set the timer switch to activate the machine for the number of minutes you desire First time users should start with 2-5 minutes
* The footrest will begin to move back and forth, carrying your feet briskly from side to side This movement will carry up through your legs and torso, throughout your entire body causing you to wiggle back and forth - that s right like a fish swimming in water
* All you do now is relax and breathe deeply, letting the machine rock you gently but firmly for a maximum of 15 minutes
* When the time is up and the machine stops, remain lying down for another two to five minutes, relaxing and breathing deeply, enjoying the remarkable afterglow - chi - as it moves throughout your body

"In two months of using the Chi Machine, my thighs, hips, stomach and buttocks now look as good as they did when I was in my 20's - and I'm almost 52"

A totally unique device which promotes the body's own natural absorption of oxygen.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

My husband likes to get in the car and go. He usually has a destination in mind and it seems we always go west. Last week he set out to buy several kinds of black walnut trees in Perry County. I'm told that there are 40 different varieties of black walnuts.

On the way home we stopped at the home of a Lancaster Farming subscriber in Cumberland County. They have a 30-acre woodlot that formerly was full of chestnuts. Now there are only a few small trees that sprouted up from the ones that were killed by the chestnut blight of the early 1900s. Allen is interested in helping to establish a blight-free American chestnut. In the spring he helped to plant 140 chestnuts on a farm in York County where work is being done to accomplish this task through hand pollinating

Forty years ago I knew where my children were every day. Some were in school, some were at the barn with their father, and the little ones were with me in the house. That is no longer true.

Our son just stopped in this morning to say that he would be at a training session on computers in Boston from Tuesday through Saturday. On Sunday our oldest daughter phoned to say that her family would be in Florida for several days. Then last night two daughters phoned. One was on a business trip and called from Saint Louis, Missouri. Another from Georgia said that her husband was in New Jersey for the week.

We can only hope and pray that they will be safe in all of their travels as we no longer are responsible for their welfare.

Beware Of 'Get-Rich-Quick' Scams

RUTGERS, N.J. — You work hard for your money. The last thing you want is to lose your money to investment fraud. Unfortunately, thousands of people fall victim every year to swindlers promising a variety of money-making opportunities in get-rich-quick scams. The truth is generally learned too late and millions of dollars are lost.

Swindlers prey upon those needing supplemental income through work-at-home scams, pyramid schemes, and a variety of other phony business opportunities and franchises. State securities regulators and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) are constantly warning people about offers that promise a quick and certain road to financial security.

Con artists actively operate through trade shows, telephone solicitations, television, radio, print advertisements, and the Internet. Victims are lured by promises that the window of opportunity will soon close, a quick decision is necessary, and a payment is urgently needed.

Pledges of exclusive territories and money-back guarantees are often attached to "get-rich-quick" self-employment scams. The con artist promises the victim marketing assistance and an income guaranteed to exceed the purchase price of the franchise, merchandise, equipment, or software.

According to the North American Securities Administrators Association, the eager victim learns the truth after investing in the sure-fire deal. The investor learns that any training they've received is useless, the equipment or software necessary to conduct their new business does not work, secure leads produce no business, no 24 hour hot-line exists to answer their questions, and guarantees are worthless.

"Downsized" workers with large severance packages are prime targets. A franchise or business opportunity may sound appealing but significant amounts of money could be lost. Before investing in any business venture or security, take the following steps:

1. Check out the company with the state securities agency or attorney general's office not only in the state where you live, but also in the state where the company is headquartered. These organizations can tell you if the company is registered and if consumer complaints are on file.

2. Ask current owners or employees about their experiences with the company. Don't accept a list of references selected by the company as a substitute for a complete list of franchise or business opportunity owners.

3. Get all promises in writing. Any promises should be written into the signed contract.

4. Investigate all earnings claims. Talk to others who have purchased the opportunity to see if their experience verifies the claims. Demand to see the company's basis for its claims in writing. Be skeptical in judging whether the claims are backed up.

5. Listen carefully to the sales presentations. Be cautious of any opportunity that sounds too easy.

6. Be wary of buying if company representatives either try to evade your questions or ignore them altogether.

7. Ask for the disclosure document for a franchise. This document, required by law, should provide detailed information to compare one business to another. If the company has no disclosure document – beware!

8. Ask a lawyer, accountant, or business advisor to read any disclosure documents and proposed contracts. Entering into any business opportunity generally requires a substantial investment.

9. Resist high pressure sales tactics. Buying a business opportunity is a big, expensive decision. Take time to think it over.

Don't Leave Safety Up In Air When Hunting From Tree Stands

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — In an effort to outsmart the elusive whitetail deer, more and more Pennsylvania hunters are taking to the trees to bag their quarry, said a hunting safety expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Hunters are climbing existing limbs or using ladders, steps or commercial climbers to reach perches about 10 to 15 feet off the forest floor," explains Earle Robbins, Penn State Cooperative Extension agent in Tioga County. "Tree stands have been very popular with hunters in archery season, and now more hunters are using them during rifle season."

Robbins said hunting from tree stands can be more productive, but using them can be dangerous. Nationwide about 10 hunters every year are killed in falls from tree stands and many others suffer temporary or permanent injury.

"Human error is the main reason for tree stand accidents," Robbins said. "People climb into trees or stands when conditions are wet, icy, or windy. They also fall asleep and fall out of the tree or become excited when a deer appears and take one step too far."

Robbins recommends following these safety tips when using tree stands:

• Do not use weathered, homemade tree stands. "These stands often deteriorate quickly and often are unsafe even when newly installed," Robbins said.

• Wear a safety belt or harness. These products fit under both arms and are attached to the tree and the hunter. If the stand breaks or slips, the hunter remains in position.

• Always unload firearms before pulling them up into (or lowering them from) the tree stand.

• Choose an obviously healthy tree with branches that can support the additional weight. "Make sure the tree has no dead branches or fungal growths near the tree or on the trunk," he said. "Mushrooms or fungus on trees can be a sign of ill health."

Take Care When Buying Roadside Apple Cider

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — With the turning of the leaves comes the opportunity to buy fresh-squeezed apple cider from roadside stands on crisp fall afternoons in the country.

But a food safety expert from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences warns that caution should be exercised when enjoying that seasonal treat.

"Unpasteurized apple cider has been the culprit in several food poisoning incidents in recent years," said Luke Laborde, assistant professor of food science. "To guard against foodborne bacteria, it's important to check what you're getting.

"Consumption of unpasteurized apple cider has been associated with bacterial illness caused by E. coli 0157:H7 or salmonella," Laborde said. "The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has recommended that the very young, the elderly, and those whose immune systems are compromised should refrain from drinking unpasteurized apple cider.

"All retailers who sell unpasteurized cider are required to post a warning on the label saying that the cider hasn't been pasteurized and that those specific groups of people shouldn't consume it, or at least should consume it with that knowledge in mind. If you're not sure what you're buying, ask the person who's selling the apple cider. The seller is required to tell you whether it's pasteurized or not."

Laborde estimates that up to 98 percent of apple cider and apple juice sold nationally is pasteurized, with roadside stands and smaller producers being the typical exceptions. Most retailers now require producers to pasteurize their juices, he points out, but the cost of the equipment required — which can exceed $20,000 — presents an economic barrier to the small farmer looking only at seasonal sales at a roadside stand.

"This has been taken into account by the FDA," he said. "New technologies are being encouraged that might be more affordable for the smaller processor. Some of the newer technologies use lower-temperature ultraviolet radiation to pasteurize less expensively. Other technologies are coming but are more experimental and less proven."

The pressing and sale of unpasteurized apple cider is, of course, a rural tradition that has endured for many years. Laborde acknowledges that many people have enjoyed unpasteurized cider for years with no ill effect. The labeling, he said, is the FDA's effort to cut the risk for everyone.

"Although apple cider outbreaks are sporadic, E. coli poisoning from cider recently sickened seven people in Oklahoma — mostly children, and some very seriously," he said. "We also saw outbreaks in Canada last year, in Connecticut in 1996 and in Massachusetts in 1991. The FDA recommends these precautions for our protection, but ultimately, the decision is up to you.

"Some people say there's a difference in taste between pasteurized and unpasteurized cider, but most people can't tell. If the cider's been pasteurized by one of the more modern processes that brings the temperature up quickly and drops it rapidly, there's very little damage to the quality. The situation is similar to raw milk several decades ago. People used to complain that pasteurized milk didn't have the same flavor, but now no one seems to mind, because pasteurization is a uniform standard."

ELIZABETHTOWN FFA

The Elizabethtown FFA Dairy Foods Career Development team represented Pennsylvania at Eastern States Expo in Springfield, Mass. against other state teams from Ohio to Maine to Virginia.

Justin Risser, Chris Hostetter, Delmar Oberholtzer, and Jonathan Swords won the team event with Justin Risser winning top individual honors. The team Career Development Event consisted of identifying off flavors in milk, identifying 14 types of cheese, conducting a mastitis test, taking several milk quality control factors practicums, and participating in a written exam.

The Poultry CDE team also captured top honors. The members were Daryl Heistand, Josh Mann, Jason Risser, Scott Leas and Ryan Heinaman. Daryl Heistand won top overall individual honors Members evaluated interior and exterior eggs, meat and live poultry for factors in quality, grading and production, and conducted a team forum and a written exam. This was the third time that an E-town FFA Poultry team has won this event.

NEW HYBRIDS. NEW PAYMENT PLANS. NEW $AVINGS

Innovation Drives Performance

Hoffman Seeds introduces a new century of performance.

Now's the best time to plan next year's seed corn purchases and save...during Hoffman Seeds' Hybrid Performance seed corn program.

- Choose from 13 new hybrids for the year 2000, each the result of our ongoing research to assure you top yields for your soil and growing conditions.
- Choose from 3 flexible payment plans, including a deferred plan for qualified buyers.
- Choose big savings—While supplies last, when you purchase 10 units of NK® Brand seed corn, you can get 12 units...2 FREE for every 10 you buy. That's like a 20% reduction in your seed bill.

For more details, see your Hoffman Seeds' dealer today and enjoy a new century of performance.

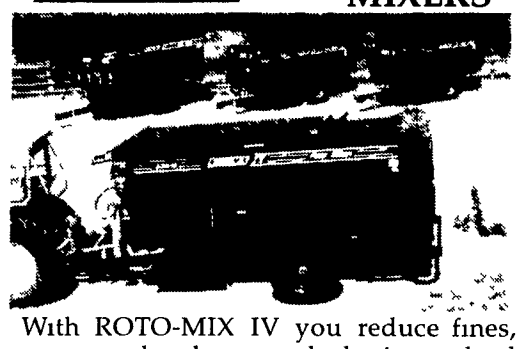
ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS


With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots. The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.
The ROTO-MIX end-to-end... side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat.

In the Degelman tradition of quality rock removal equipment, here is the RR1500 rock rake, another example of Degelman's continuing commitment to excellence.

The RR1500 rock rake includes a unique auto-fold system which provides safe, easy transport no wider than most tractors (8 feet in transport position) with full use of the 14 foot width in the working position. And with hydraulic angling, it can take full advantage of the 10 to 30 degree angling range.

Degelman Rock Rakes are excellent machines for grooming fairways and conditioning soil for the construction of golf courses. It leaves a beautiful final finish preparing the course for seeding. They are also used for reclaiming gravel on gravel roads. And the heavy duty construction and quality workmanship means that it is built to last.

Degelman

The SIGNATURE 6000 may be the only rock picker you'll ever need This is the most rugged rock picker on the market Some of the SIGNATURE 6000 features include:

Solid Shaft Grill Tines with Replaceable Grill Tips - This modern grill is easier to maintain, has longer life giving you less down time. The unique grill provides five feet of clean sifting and virtually jamless performance.

Grated Hopper Bottom - We use spring steel straps in the hopper, engineered to bounce back in shape.

Hydraulic Drive - The most popular drive on rock pickers is hydraulic which is standard on the 6000. We have incorporated a relief valve to take away the shock when disengaging the drive.

Reel Assembly - The three paddle reel has a large diameter, hard sufaced teeth and heavy duty paddles.

Flotation Tires - The 16.5L x 16.1 flotation tires are standard equipment and are a must to reduce soil compaction.

Swing Pole - Easy to maneuver in both working or transport position.

Degelman

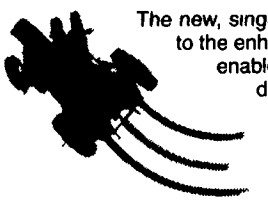
Simple, User-Friendly Operation.

Industry Leading Turning Radius

The revolutionary chassis of the MX Series Magnum improves your overall performance and productivity In fact, the innovative Surround frame allows for the tightest turning radius in the industry, even with front duals!

Thanks to axle improvements, engine placement and a sleek hood design, the MX Series Magnum can easily turn into 12 30-inch rows with all row crop tire configurations on true 60-inch tread settings.



The new, single-piece, sculpted, cast iron Surround frame is the key to the enhanced capabilities and performance of these tractors. It enables the MX Series Magnum to offer the first factory front duals, dramatically improving both traction and flotation By balancing the chassis, we've significantly reduced the amount of front ballast required And the frame easily accomodates mounted chemical tanks or loaders, allowing you to perform multiple applications

Study Cattle Behavior, Social Structure To Improve Management, Researcher Says

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Studying cattle behavior and using a knowledge of cattle behavior patterns and social structure in managing beef could make managing cattle easier and lead to improved ways of limiting the environmental impact of grazing, a Montana State University researcher said

"Cattle develop a social structure and there are varying degrees of dominance among cattle. In those regards, they are very similar to human society," said Bok Sowell, an associate professor of range science. "People who spend a lot of time around livestock and work with them recognize those characteristics and use them to their advantage. Science hasn't been able to quantify those characteristics yet."

Sowell urged researchers at the national meeting of the American Society of Animal Science to conduct more research on cattle social behavior. He says the research could pay vast dividends for producers, particularly large-scale producers in the western United States and Canada. About 1,800 researchers from around the world attended the meeting in Indianapolis, Ind., July 20-23.

In areas of the West where large areas of public land are grazed, livestock producers are coming under increasing pressure to limit the amount of damage that cattle do to the vegetative areas around streams, lakes, and other bodies of water. A number of species of wildlife and fish depend on those areas as habitat. "We've seen some grazing permits denied because of the potential for damage to those riparian damages," Sowell said. "For some producers, denial of a grazing permit can cost them their livelihood."

Producers have few options for protecting such areas, he noted. Fencing is effective, but prohibitively expensive. Herding cattle is only slightly more practical on the West's wide-open range.

"What if we could use our knowledge of social structure to manage cattle to protect those areas," he said. "Perhaps we could cull the cows that constantly lead the herd to those areas Another option might be to find improved ways to herd cattle so that only limited human attention and intervention is required.

"Some research has already shown that if someone herds a group of cattle away from an area, they're more likely to stay away if the herder spends some time at the new location — as little as a half an hour or an hour may be all that's needed to get them established in a new location."

One of Sowell's colleagues at Montana State, Jeff Mosely, is launching some early studies into cattle social behavior. Other Montana research focuses on delivering mineral supplements to cattle more equitably using a working knowledge of boss-cow behavior. The key is to keep dominant cows from overeating while making sure more meek cattle receive their fair share.

Only a few other limited studies on herd behavior and social structure exist. "Much of the information we have on this topic is from producers — people that live and work with livestock," Sowell said.

It's very good information, but we need to quantify it before we can look for ways to improve management through its use."

Sowell noted that the research will not be easy nor the results clear-cut.

"We know that the social structure of the cattle is pretty stable until there's a change. Any change in environment or make-up of the herd can result in a change in the social structure. Some changes, like a drought and the resulting lack of food, can alter the structure."

Likewise, how cattle exhibit dominance is complex. Some cattle dominate at the feed bunk while others dominate at the water trough or in the pasture. "It depends on the situation. There are certain times that the rules apply and sometimes that they don't."

But the potential benefits will make the research worthwhile, he insists. There are already examples where beef producers are using cattle social structure and behavior to their advantage.

Savvy producers know that some cows lead the herd from one location to another. When a herd needs to be moved, they focus their efforts on those lead cows and the others follow.

Producers who graze cattle in very extreme conditions in the west often keep older cows past their reproductive prime. Why? Because old cows teach calves and new animals how to make the best use of scarce food, water and shelter on the range.

Some Australian producers keep track of how far cows travel from water sources on the range. They know that cattle don't move far from the water source aren't making use of all of a pasture's available forage and aren't likely to be top producers.

"Much of this information has been known since biblical times to those who work closely with livestock," Sowell said. "But most of us don't consider it very much. But if we take it into account we may just find there's a smarter way to do things."

Glickman Names Members To National Dairy Board

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman has announced the appointment of five incumbents and seven new members to the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board. All will serve three-year terms through Oct. 31, 2002.

Re-appointed to serve second terms were Paul E. Rovey, Glendale, Ariz. (region 3); Glen E. Schroeder, Caledonia, Minn. (region 5); William B. Siebenborn, Trenton, Mo. (region 7); James S. Cook, Evergreen, Ala. (region 8); and Ruth I. Laribee, Lowville, N.Y. (region 12).

Newly appointed were John Zonneveld, Jr., Laton, Calif. (region 2); John B. Stacks, Damascus, Ark. (region 4); Patricia M. Boettcher, Bloomer, Wis. (region 6); Janet M. Nelson, Prairie Farm, Wis. (region 6); Joseph P. Logan, Kinsman, Ohio (region 9); Rita Kennedy, Valencia, Pa. (region 11); and Claude J. Bourbeau, Swanton, Vt. (region 13).

The National Dairy Promotion and Research Board, composed of 36 dairy farmers representing 13 regions of the contiguous United States, administers a coordinated program of promotion, research, and nutrition education.

Grain Estimates Higher

AMES, Iowa — As harvest season winds down across the Grain Belt, producers are seeing improved crop conditions and are forecasting higher yields than previously estimated.

National Farmers Organization, serving all of producers' marketing needs, today updated their grain crop estimates. The 1999 corn crop, estimated in October to be 9.251 billion bushels, has been raised to 9.370 billion bushels. November soybean forecasts stand at 2.698 billion bushels, down nine million bushels from early October.

"Late season dryness hampered some of the soybean yield," said Pete Lorenz, acting director of National Farmers' Grain Department.

"However, all 1999 grain production still stands at near-record levels."

He went on to note that the entire corn belt shows significantly more variability in condition than 1998, considered by many to be a "flagship" year for uniformity in growing condition.

Should these estimates hold true, corn production would fall 391 million bushels behind 1998 figures, and soybean production would be 58 million bushels lower.

The total wheat crop is forecasted at 2.219 billion bushels, slightly lower than October figures.

National Farmers recommends enrolling a portion of your grain in the Marketing Plus for grain program, which for 10 years has successfully placed producers in the top third of the market 80 percent of the time. For more information, contact National Farmers' Grain Department at (800) 247-2110.

Livestock Producers Involved With Direct Marketing Meeting Jan. 31

ROCHESTER, N Y — The NYS Farmers' Direct Marketing Association has expanded its annual direct marketing conferences to include direct marketing of livestock products.

On Monday, Jan. 31, at the Rochester Sheraton Four Points Hotel, the conference offers a full day of session that will cover topics in direct marketing of meat products

Marty Broccoli, from SUNY Cobleskill's meat processing lab and Nancy Morey and Jim MacLaughlin, from the SoCNY RC&D, will present sessions on processing, packaging, and pricing your livestock products for retail sales They'll discuss what cuts of meat sell the best, government and health regulations, pricing guidelines for different cuts and different types of meat, and other topics

The afternoon sessions will cover retail outlets for selling meat products Marty Broccoli, who is developing a pastured veal association, will help find marketing outlets for our meat products, including getting meat into grocery chains and restaurants He'll also introduce a new trailer for cutting and preparing meats for retail sales at farmers' markets

Andrew Blace, who successfully markets his meats through mail order, will share his knowledge and expertise on developing and conducting a mail-order business.

In addition to the full day of livestock marketing, the conference offers three full days of sessions on direct marketing agricultural products of all types, including fruits and vegetables, bedding plants, maple syrup, Christmas trees, and all other products marketed directly to the consumer You'll learn about starting your own retail business, ways to expand your business with different product lines and different enterprises, and considerations for making competent and profitable business decisions. You can also visit a large trade show with vendors offering products that will help you with your direct marketing business. You'll find all kinds of packaging materials, gourmet foods, display units, seeds, agri-entertainment products — and the list goes on and on.

The NYS Farmers' Direct Marketing Association is offering something for everyone for the 2000 "Marketing in the New Millennium" conference. For more information on the conference and for registration materials, visit the web site at www nysfdma.com or call Diane Eggert at (313) 475-1101 For more information on becoming a vendor in the trade show, call Bob and Judy Schultz at (716) 484-7300.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

Everlast Roofing

Everlast II is galvanized heavier like old times, it is heat formed to prevent paint cracks, it is cut while hot to prevent early edge rust, Everlast paint is harder so it won't scratch as easy, won't bend or buckle as easy because of stronger design, laps are tighter and virtually invisible, nails/screws seal better because ribs fit tighter to fastener heads, zinc phosphate is used under paint which is much better than the chromate most competitors use Crisp and attractive. Sharp colors Excellent for houses and barns. Double dipped galvanized is proven best for animals. Standing seam is ideal for houses Low prices, fast delivery

Bed your free stalls fast...
60 stalls in 60 seconds

"It's amazing how fast it is."
Dale Kennedy, Catalpa Farm, Middletown, PA

"The Millcreek Bedding Spreader saves me untold hours of back breaking manual labor installing fresh sawdust in my 125 stalls Now I use less material and get a more controlled application The Bedding Spreader is a good equipment value because I use it so often "

Now you can apply fresh wood shavings, sawdust or sand for free stall bedding 75% faster - with just one man. No more shovel, no more backache.

The Millcreek Bedding Spreader puts fresh bedding exactly where you want it. There's nothing like it for fast, efficient and cost-effective application of fresh bedding material in free stall barns

For example, Scott Coblentz, Deer Spring Farm, Maryland, milks 280 head and uses sand to help improve herd health It used to take 2 men almost 2 days to install fresh bedding. Now, with the Millcreek Bedding Spreader, one man does the job in hours.

PURINA CALF STARTENA

"Because Calves Never Get Over A Bad Start... Or A Good One!"

Md Brookside Dairy is located in Washington County, Maryland Tom and Judy Shaw along with their son Robbie milk 60 cows and farm nearly 500 acres Tom has put in his time on the dairy and now is an A I Technician, while son Robbie takes care of the animals, according to Tom, the family farm has fed Purina's Calf Startena to their baby calves for 20 years until a few years ago when they thought they would try to save some money and buy a cheaper calf feed 'The calves just didn't grow as well,' Tom and Robbie agreed

Robbie likes Purina's Startena best for its palatability 'Calves start on Startena quickly and eat more of it compared to the other mix,' Robbie states. 'The more the calves eat the more they grow, and with eating more sooner, they are healthier', Robbie continues 'Healthier calves grow better'. Robbie & wife Michelle have 2 daughters, Courtney and Carly Robbie who has a cow named after his older daughter Courtney, worried he wasn't going to get a heifer calf good enough to name after the youngest, Carly - now he does - the calf is pictured at right Robbie is sure you will hear more about this heifer Md Brookside, Mtoto Carly Et Carly has 3 generations of 91 point cows behind her, her granddam was all Maryland and both her dam and grand dam were over 30,000# of milk Carly, Born Sept 3rd, 1999 gets Purina Calf Startena Free Choice, to give her a better start, because as Tom says, 'when we quit using Purina Calf Startena we also quit winning as much in the show ring.' All calves now at Shaw's Dairy get Calf Startena, because as Tom & Robbie agreed 'calves never get over a bad start or a good one.' The Shaw's buy their Startena from their local Purina Dealer, Wm. Gower & Son.

Rob Shaw of Brookside Farm, Washington Co., MD

Keith Grove, Greencastle, PA

WASHINGTON CO., MD

Lester and Wilma Strite have been dairying on their own for almost 22 years, they have 4 children, Cindy, Chris, Dennis, and Deann. The Washington County Dairymen milks 90 cows, and raises approximately 40 heifers per year. Lester started on Purina's Calf Startena about a year and a half ago partly because he wasn't satisfied with his current calf starter, and partly because of a promotion the Purina Salesman, Cliff Ocker, was offering at a local field day.

Calves start quickly on Calf Startena, is what Lester likes best about the product It smells good - it's no wonder they start quicker. Lester likes the consistency of Startena and feels that is is very reasonably priced Lester enjoys doing his calf business thru Wm Gower and Son - his local Purina Dealer According to Lester, calves look better and fill out better and quicker since feeding Purina's Startena. Since he's only fed Startena for 1 1/2 years, he's still anxious to see how the heifers perform in the milking string. By paying closer attention to the young heifers, they do notice that more heifers are bred to freshen by 24 months than ever before.

GREENCASTLE, PA

Antrim Way Farm, owned and operated by Robert and Keith Grove of Greencastle, Pa milk 100 Holsteins, and are long-time Purina feeders Robert and wife, Norma often care for the calves, along with son Keith, wife Kim and their 2 young sons, Ryan and Jared and hired hand Jeremy Forrester, all work the dairy As Keith recalls, 'we've probably fed Purina's Calf Startena for 25 years! Why? For 25 years Startena has been consistent Calf Startena is a 16% protein high energy calf starter. It is a coarse mix of pellets, oats, and steam flaked corn with enough molasses to entice calves early Keith likes the coarseness of the product, with steam flaked corn and no fines, this helps baby calves start early on grain 'By starting early, the calves maintain good growth rates,' Keith comments. The Groves feed Purina from baby calves through to lactating cows, through their local Purina Dealer, Farmers Union Co-Op in Greencastle.

Purina Mills, Farmers Union Co-Op and Wm. Gower & Son would like to thank these dairymen for their business and wish them continued success.
